Mine Operators Ask Boost In Coal Price To Meet Union Demands.

(By United Press)

Spokesmen for a part of Ohio and West Virginia's UMW coal miners said today that Secretary Icke's action levying fines of $1 a day against last week's strikers "certainly would not help the situation" and would cause discontent and protests.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Coal Czar Harold L. Ickes today announced that he would fine the 540,000 members of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers Union $1-a-day for the five days that they struck in the nation's coal mines from June 1 to June 5.

Ickes, who seized the mines on May 1 after a first general walkout in the coal fields, indicated by the action that he would not tolerate strikes against the government while he is running the mines.

How union chieftain Lewis and the miners would react to the fines was not known.

Ickes maintained that the fines were in accordance with the contract between the miners and operators. After government-seizure of the mines, he continued operation of the old contract. Ickes maintained, and the contract contains a clause calling for a $1 fine every day a miner engages in a wildcat strike. Thus, every miner in the nation who participated in the second walkout starting June 1, will be fined $5, according to Ickes.

"The fines," Ickes continued, "will be withheld from the miners' pay envelopes and the money will be donated to a charity. That is according to the contract, too."

Ickes stated that the fines will be deducted next payday. If another strike occurs, he added, the miners will be fined $1 a day for every day they stay out.

"This fine is not new," Ickes insisted again and again. "It has been done before in the history

Thousand Fish Go Into Pools for Young Fishermen

The fishing in Mansfield's three park lakes should improve rapidly Friday afternoon when the state conservation department places more than 1,000 bass, catfish and crappies in the city waters as the first step in a summer contest for boy and girl anglers under 16.

North and Maple lakes and Liberty park lake will be stocked with fish, beginning at 3 p. m. Friday. Boys and girls will be permitted to start fishing immediately for the catfish and crappies, but they must wait until June 16 to catch bass.

Sponsored jointly by the Charles Mill Sportsmen's club, city parks commission, and merchants and other contributors, the contest will provide prizes for the young anglers who catch fish with numbered tags attached to their gills. Merchants who hold numbers corresponding to those on the tags will give merchandise prizes to the fishermen who present their tags taken from fish they have caught.

A number of merchants today had offered prizes, and other persons who want to contribute to the prize list were asked to contact Leo Yuncker of the Yuncker Sporting Goods store who represents the Charles Mill Sportsmen's club.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Erich Leinsdorf, new director of the Cleveland orchestra, announced that women players would be hired for next season.

Are These Invasion Leaders?

Gen. George C. Marshall

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander

While rumors of invasion of the European continent reach a crescendo pitch, talk turns to the possible commander of such an invasion. Visit of Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the U. S. army, to North Africa has led to reports that he will be named to command the invasion of southern Europe with Gen. Dwight Eisenhower of the U. S. army and Gen. Sir Harold Alexander of the British army the commanders of forces under him.

Roll-Back Reduces Price of Butter to 51 Cents In City

A nation wide Office of Price Administration order putting into effect a five to six cent roll-back on the price of butter lowered the retail price in Mansfield to 51 cents a pound today.

Beginning today Mansfielders who have been paying 56 cents for a pound of butter will find that a nickel has been lopped off the price by the new OPA order.

The retail price roll-back followed a five-cent cut in creamery prices ordered June 4 and a simiar lowering of wholesale prices June 6.

Cleveland OPA officials said today retailers who still had butter supplies purchased before June 6 would subtract five cents from their largest single purchase and recalculate their prices.

Meanwhile a showdown was in prospect today on whether the office of price administration is to be permitted to roll back the retail prices of cost-of-living articles through the payment of subsidies.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., announced that he would move to bar the use of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds to make subsidy payments. He plans to achieve that through an amendment to legislation increasing the borrowing power of the commodity credit corporation by $500,000,000.

As approved by the senate banking and currency committee, the bill carries a provision that none of the CCC funds may be used to pay subsidies.

In the house Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott, R., Mich., was drafting legislation similar to Taft's. He said

Ickes Asks Oil Price Boost, Doubts Stiffer Midwest Ban.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Secretary of the Interior Ickes, revealing that stricter gasoline rationing for the middle-west was not in immediate prospect, today disclosed that he is renewing his request for a 35 cents-a-barrel increase in the price of crude oil.

He indicated that if it is turned down again by the OPA he will appeal to the president.

At the same time, Ickes described the oil producing situation in this country as "so serious that we are right now on the edge of becoming an importing nation instead of an exporting nation."

112 Injured In Six Nights of Lawlesness In Los Angeles Area.

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES —(U.P.)— Pachuco girls, female counterparts of the zoot-suited hoodlums who have battled uniformed service men in street rioting for six nights, slashed and beat a young woman early today.

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES—Efforts of law enforcement agencies to bring about peace in the Los Angeles zoot suit warfare took the spotlight today following the sixth straight night of warfare between "drape-shape" hoodlums and servicemen.

Fighting broke anew on several suburban "fronts" late last night, although zoot-suiters within the city limits proper apparently heeded Mayor Fletcher Bowron's warning of "two-fisted" action to eliminate the "civil war."

Civil and military police quelled an uprising in the Watts district after 150 service men wildly battled a force of some 125 zooted youths and juveniles.

Fighting lasted more than an hour. The service men, mostly sailors and marines, braved stone barrages to rip trousers off many of their assailants.

A number of participants were rounded up and held for questioning. Navy officials indicated 25 sailors would face military charges—"to set an example."

In the Azuza district, a 15-year-old boy was shot twice in the leg by a police officer. The youth, Vincent Durate, was said to be a member of a 25-boy gang of hoodlums who were tossing lighted gasoline-soaked rags into a theater. He was removed to General hospital

For the third consecutive night, street cars were stoned in the Watts area. Car windows were broken, but police said no injuries were reported.

Police meanwhile issued their

Quick Response on Auto Use Tax Purchases Urged.

Nearly 50 motor vehicle use tax stamps were sold at the Mansfield postoffice in the first few hours of the opening of the sale today, W. T. Houston, acting postmaster, said.

Houston urged car owners not to put off buying their stamps until the last minute.

The $5 stamps which will be sold until July 31 must be displayed on windshields before July 1. Local postoffice authorities expect 1943 sales to equal those of last year which amounted to a total of 13,201 stamps sold.

The broadcast recorded by the United Press in New York referred to Sano as "new chief of staff of home defense."

Women Voters Propose Shift To City Manager Government

A movement looking toward organization of a Citizens' league with the immediate objective of studying establishment of a charter form of government embracing the city manager plan for Mansfield ran into a stalemate last night but its supporters today said they are planning a future course of consideration.

Long discussed by the Richland County League of Women Voters, establishment of a city planning commission or adoption of a city charter was first broached publicly at last night's league-sponsored public meeting at the Chamber of Commerce.

The proposal followed a discussion of the $663,000 city surplus uncovered by the research department of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

It was made in the form on a motion requesting the Chamber of Commerce to organize a Citizens league to be made up of representatives from each civic organization in Mansfield.

The motion added that it was the wish of the Women's league that the citizens' body have as its "immediate objective" the consideration of the establishment of a "long-term planning commission, either to be adopted by ordinance of council or by submission to the electorate of a home-rule charter commission."

As the motion was presented, Mrs. D. O. Meese, league president,

Marriott Heads Dem City Primary Ticket

Democrats Are Without Contest; G.O.P. To Have One.

A slate of municipal candidates headed by Atty. Glenn W. Marriott for mayor was offered today by the Democratic party following a meeting last night of party leaders with the candidate prospects. One woman candidate, Mrs. Clark Brook for council-at-large, will appear on the ticket.

Only two places remained unfilled on the Democratic ticket while the Republicans have only one more day to find five candidates for a complete slate. The filing deadline is Friday night.

The lone primary contest apparently will be in the Republican ranks where Councilman George C. Kyle and William W. Carter, former council clerk, have indicated they wil file for council president.

The Democrats had filled every place on their ticket today except the First and Second ward council posts. Party men said they hoped to find candidates for them by tomorrow night.

A last minute shift in G. O. P. plans is expected to make Charles N. Shultz the G .O. P. candidate for council again in the Second ward and put Kyle, councilman-at-large, on the party ticket for council president. Shultz had been

WOMAN GORED TO DEATH BY BULL

Attacked By Enraged Animal as She Brings Cows In From Pasture.

Gored by a bull which attacked her in a field at her home late yesterday, Mrs. Effie Mitchell Cook, Shelby-Ontario road, 60, was found dead a quarter of a mile west of her home by her husband, Horace M. Cook, at 7 p. m. yesterday.

Mrs. Cook had left the house shortly after 6 p. m. to bring in the cows. While in the field she had been attacked by the enraged bull and the scene gave mute evidence of the woman's desperate attempt to escape the assault of the animal. Her body, according to Acting Coroner Blake Kohler, was badly mutilated. Apparently the bull, after knocking Mrs. Cook to the ground had trampled her.

Mrs. Cook was well known in the Ontario community. She was born east of Ontario July 6, 1882 and had spent her entire life in that vicinity. She was a member of the Ontario Community church and all its women's organizations.

Surviving are her husband, her aged mother, Mrs. Flora Mitchell, at home, a daughter, Mrs Jeannette Mentzer of Lexington and a sister, Mrs. B. F. Harter of Mansfield.

The body was removed to the Jones Memorial where it will remain until time of service Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the Ontario Community church. Burial will be in the Ontario cemetery. Rev. C. H. Bowers will conduct the service.

Boy Hurt as Auto Tosses Bike Into Second Car's Path

A 12 year-old bicycle rider suffered injuries to his hip and right ear in a freak accident at 9:15 p. m. Wednesday on West Fourth street near Benton street as the open door of one automobile threw him into the path of a second car.

The youth, Ray Majors, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Majors, Trimble road, was treated at General hospital for a dislocated hip and a cut on his ear. He was taken home last night.

Police said the boy was struck by a car driven by Harry W. Greer of Bellville after the bicycle was deflected by the door of a car owned by Hugh Higginbottom, Shaker Heights. Neither driver was held. Officers said Higginbottom threw open the door of his car to get out when the boy apparently rode his bicycle into the door and then swerved in front of Greer's car.

'Sensible Men' to Burn Their Ties Near White House

WASHINGTON — (AP) — With zoot suits flourishing elsewhere in the land, the white-collar men in Uncle Sam's government offices here have decided that shirts and slacks are the proper garb for male office wear in Washington's sweltering summertime.

So to express their determination to cast off collars and ties, the government's "brotherhood of sensible men" have announced a mass meeting for June 15 on the ellipse in front of the White House.

If it is to be a bonfire, at which stiff collars, old jackets, neckties and other traditional garb of the government clerk will be consumed.

"If the zoot suiters can drape shapes and the girl workers can wear pants," a male declared, "I see no reason why we shouldn't keep cool too."

DON'T FORGET

Midnight's Deadline For Ration Book Mailing.

Midnight tonight is the mailing deadline for applications for War Ration Book No. 3, ration officials reminded householders today.

Persons failing to meet the deadline must wait until Aug. 1 to make application. Applications were distributed to each house in Mansfield last month. Extra application blanks may be obtained at the postoffice.

Arthur S. Spath, regional mailing director, reported that the percentage of errors in the mailed-in applications is less than first reports indicated. Of approximately 1,750,000 applications processed in Columbus, he said, only 12,250 were rejected.

London Waits Report Troops Have Landed

Island Garrison Refuses to Give Up As Continuous Air, Sea Pounding Goes on Relentlessly; Plane Battles Flaring In Russia.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (INS) — Another report that Allied troops have landed on the island of Pantelleria was broadcast by the Berlin radio today, according to the London Evening Standard The broadcast said: "It appears that Allied forces have landed on Pantelleria. Details are not yet available. Italy knows that Germany will give all necessary help."

(By Associated Press)

Shattering new assaults on Italy's "Gibraltar" at Pantelleria and a British Commando attack on Lempedusa island were announced by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters today, while in London the belief persisted that momentous operations were imminent.

"Official news of landing expected this morning," said Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express, headlining the siege of Pantelleria.

The volcanic little island, athwart the transmediterranean invasion to Sicily and the Italian mainland, underwent its 18th successive day of aerial attack yesterday after rejecting an Allied ultimatum for unconditional surrender.

At the same time, American heavy bombers from the Middle East kept up the pounding of Italy's Sicilian stronghold, blasting the airdrome at Gerbine and the town of Catania, and RAF planes swept over the Aegean sea to strafe Axis ships off Nazi-occupied Greece.

Italian headquarters listed 41 killed and 91 injured in an attack by multi-engined bombers at Catania.

Confirming previous Axis reports, Allied headquarters announced that British Commandos raided Lampedusa island, 80 miles south of Pantelleria, on Monday night, apparently as part of the "war of nerves" against invasion-worried Italy.

A communique said the Commandos encountered fire from two field guns and machineguns on the beach in Monday's attack, but suffered few casualties and withdrew after accomplishing their mission.

Other developments at-a-glance:

RUSSIA—Moscow stresses violent air battles as prelude to 1943 summer campaign; Red armies beat off German attacks in two sectors, destroy two German infantry companies on Leningrad front.

UNREST — Yugoslav patriots battle tank-led Axis troops in Montenegrin mountains.

AIR WAR—RAF lists 874 planes lost in first five months of great Allied aerial offensive against Europe, 252 lost in May.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—Australia's Prime Minister Curtin says hour near for Allied drive against Japanese.

BURMA — RAF planes bomb Japanese on upper Chindwin river; land front quiet.

Under orders from Rome, Pantelleria's bomb-dazed garrison continued to hold out in the island's volcanic hills, and an Italian broadcast, obviously seeking to bolster morale on the Italian home front, said the defenders were "proudly accepting all privations and sacrifices."

Upon the garrison's refusal to surrender, Allied planes again dropped a great weight of explosives on the island yesterday, underlining Gen. Eisenhower's warning that the Italians could expect only "bombing, bombardment and

BASTION: Australia Ready as Base for Attack Against Japs

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The navy reported today a new air attack against the enemy air base at Munda on the New Georgia island in the central Solomons of the South Pacific and said also that known enemy losses on Attu island in the Aleutians now stand at 1,845 men killed and 20 taken prisoner.

(By International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—Transformation of Australia from a defense base into a formidably-armed bastion of attack against Japan was announced by Australian Prime Minister John Curtin today in concluding a series of conferences with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The time has passed when a Japanese invasion of Australia is an eventuality seriously to be feared, Curtin said, and this island continent's role in a "holding war" has come to an end.

Developments aimed at "discomfiture" of the Japanese were freely predicted, and Curtin expressed firm belief that Japan at the present time—and presumably in the future—would be unable to invade Australia.

"The conclusions of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill for prosecution of the war in the Pacific with the same vigor as the war in Europe," Curtin said, "have portents for the discomfiture of the Japanese."

The prime minister paid lavish tribute to Gen. MacArthur for his part in building up the strength of Australia and making possible the present situation wherein this nation is not merely to hold itself against invasion but to become the springboard for onslaught upon Japan.

FINALE: Bloody Charge Ends Japanese Resistance on Attu

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN

CORIES LAKE, Attu, May 30—(Delayed)—(AP)—On this bloody Memorial day, which brought annihilation of the last organized enemy resistance on Attu, the mass of surviving Japanese killed themselves with hand grenades rather than surrender.

Surprised yesterday by a desperate enemy counter-attack that brought temporary gains, the Americans rallied to rout the Japanese and slaughter them by hundreds. The fighting ended today.

A madly yelling mob of Japanese army and navy personnel and civilians—apparently every man who could be mustered into action in the Attu village sector—rushed American positions above Cories lake. They succeeded in reoccupying positions from which they had been driven days before.

That attack took American forces by surprise. At an advanced command post near here, sleeping soldiers were bayonetted and grenaded in their pup tents and in fox holes. At least one American field gun was turned against our own forces.

A few snipers penetrated even beyond Gen. E. M. Landrum's headquarters, to the west and east.

Their attack stopped, the desperate Japanese died almost to a

ONDON—(By Wireless)—American labor trou- bles are incomprehensible over here. I can nd no way to explain them to the people here ho inquire.

In this war there is no parallel here, or in weden, for the course taken by John L. Lewis. here have been no wartime strikes of any size Sweden. Those occurring in Britain have been in defiance of union leaders. People here can understand the labor leader whose men get out of hand, but not one who orders a stoppage in a basic war production industry like coal mining.

Clapper

Nor can they understand the Packard strike which, as reported in London, was caused by giving work to three Negroes on the assembly line. Neither here nor in Sweden is there any race problem. Our trouble in at respect is the subject of widespread interest, cause it is regarded as one of the big minority oblems of the world. For 20,000 workers to op war production over employment of three nerican citizens of dark skin does not make nse abroad, especially when this is printed alongle a newspaper report of Ambassador Winant's dress on the four freedoms at Manchester.

American army officers here regard the labor uble at home sourly. They feel it is not good the morale of American troops, who have en working in England day and night for months ilding air fields. One field has just been com- ted three months ahead of schedule because e engineer officers took no leave whatever for ght months, and enlisted men voluntarily cut eir furlough to a maximum of four days The achinery is used 24 hours a day, seven days a ek, regardless of weather. When such effort necessary here in the European theater, morale turally needs the feeling that labor at home is ing all it can.

I do not believe in patent medicine for American labor trouble. I don't believe patent remedies have been the answer to the far superior industrial-labor relations in Britain and Sweden. Nor are labor relations without blemish here in England. Even the most carefully devised machinery will not always work automatically, especially when there are differences of opinion as to whether the burdens are equitably distributed.

Last year England saw more strikes than at any time in the war. A million and a half working days were lost. That is less than a third of the loss in 1918, but it was still disturbing. The whole work loss from industrial disputes is estimated by the labor ministry to average about half an hour per worker per year. There have been increasing numbers of short strikes protesting overtime work or pay inequalities.

Widespread dissatisfaction exists among 200,000 transport workers over the rejection by a special arbitration tribunal a month ago of pay increases requested because of the increased strain of wartime operation of buses and trams. There were numerous local walkouts. Union leaders successfully ordered the strikers back to work, although the army and employers had to provide supplementary transportation for workers in some localities. The last two months have seen an increase in tension in labor generally in England, which is perhaps natural because of the steady increase in war-production pressure, plus the natural effects of prolonged war strain.

Labor is much more docile in Sweden than either here or in America despite the fact that labor controls the Social Democratic government. Every fourth adult of working age is a trade-union member. Swedish labor has accepted an arrangement which does not fully compensate it for increases in the cost of living, yet no important strikes or lockouts have occurred during the war. I do not consider Sweden much of a pattern for America, as our labor, like our employers, is much more volatile and aggressive. The British pattern is a better one for us, but the spirit on both sides is more important than the machinery.

SEEKS TO OPEN SEALED DATA ON JAP ESPIONAGE

M'Cormack Would Bare Facts Held From Public After Probe 10 Years Ago.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Evidence of early Japanese espionage activities and preparation for conquest of the United States may be brought to light if the house approves a resolution to open the ten-year-old sealed records of a special investigating committee, it was learned today.

The evidence—sealed in 1934 after its sensational nature resulted in a "lay off" order because friendly relations with Japan might be endangered—was unearthed by a special committee headed by Rep. John McCormack, D., Mass., now Democratic leader.

One member of the McCormack committee recalled that extended hearings on the west coast revealed evidence that Japanese-built fishing boats in California were equipped with torpedo tubes.

"There also was definite indication of Japanese efforts to secure charts of now-vital defense areas, and other espionage activity which presumably was groundwork for the planned conquest that started with Pearl Harbor," he said.

The late Rep. Charles Kramer, D., Calif., conducted the hearings on unfriendly Japanese activities in his home state in 1933 and 1934.

After the "lay off" order—which members understood came from the state department—Kramer caused the testimony to be placed with other secret records of the committee under seal in the congressional library. It was directed that the seal be broken only upon passage of a house resolution authorizing such action.

McCormack introduced such a resolution this week at the request of the justice department. A public hearing on the resolution will be held by the house library committee Monday, and sponsors planned to press for immediate house approval.

Speed is essential to the justice department because the department is especially interested in part of the record dealing with the early activities of George Sylvester Viereck, alleged Nazi agent, who comes up for retrial in federal court later in the week.

Another section of the sealed record, it was understood, deals with unsuccessful attempts to interest prominent Americans in a Fascist movement in this country.

BEHIND SCENES BATTLE RAGES OVER FSA FUNDS

Farm Bureau, Grain Terminal Reported at Odds on 'Depression Baby.'

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Life of the embattled farm security administration still hung in the balance today as the senate went anew into the background of this depression-born administration favorite in an effort to pass the 1943-44 agriculture appropriation bill.

Behind the tumultuous floor scenes and bitter personal argument that have characterized three days of debate lay rumors of a struggle between gigantic farm organizations for a dominant voice in the government's spending of millions for agriculture.

Reputedly seeking defeat of senate appropriation committee plans to keep the FSA alive is the American Farm Bureau Federation and the sprawling county agent extension service of the agriculture department.

Back of the battle to maintain the FSA and prevent its death through merger with the farm credit administration is the multimillionaire grain terminal cooperative with headquarters in St. Paul, Minn. The cooperative claims it's stand is backed by the national grange.

"The senate committee amendment giving the FSA more money and providing for its existence apart from the farm credit administration is merely duplicating a service that the credit administration can provide" said Sen Harry F. Byrd (D) Va., who took over leadership of the fight on the senate amendment.

The senate saved the FSA once yesterday when it voted 54 to 23 against a point of order raised by Byrd to throw out the amendment on the ground that it would put legislative matter into an appropriation bill.

As soon as the vote was announced however, Byrd introduced a substitute amendment setting the FSA direct appropriations at $12,000,000 and giving it authority to lend only $40,000,000 in RFC funds to needy farmers next year.

These sums are approximately the same as those voted by the house, but much less than the $97,607,000 appropriation recommended, 300,000 loan authority and $29,- ed by the senate committee

Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, aiding the fight on the farm security administration, joined Byrd in challenging validity of the FSA amendment.

-AIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

ENVER—It should comfort our nerves against the political irritations of the time to realize it from a sitting start in June, 1940, when, so nry Kaiser recently remarked, there were only 000 ill-armed American soldiers available to ose a Japanese invasion and those few scattered out the land, the United States has now become nation almost totally devoted to works of war.

Pegler

In that impressive speech delivered in Boston to a gathering of war industrialists and workers from the plant, Kaiser conjectured that the Axis actually had let the pay ball go for a called strike, and the third one at that, when Hitler failed to push across the channel at whatever immediate cost and Japan hesitated to attack this country without warning in the west

We had, in one round number, nothing to fight with, and, with tain down and out and a triumphant and vengemaniac in the east and Japan ashore in the st and Russia still Allied with Hitler, the United ites almost certainly must have gone down ting with shotguns, 22s and pitchforks.

We have gone through a stage in which petut rulers in Washington accused the people of nplacency, though even then their sons were le or going and millions were churning around, king for some place to grab hold of a rope and l. But that, too, is over Nobody, not even the sident, himself, can have a mental picture of whole war effort of the American nation now, aning not merely the government but the indual people It may not be totality as the Brit- Russians and Germans know it, but it is closer totality than we, ourselves, realize, for each son regards the change in his own locality as ocal condition.

The American war effort, the change of ways m those of peace to those of war, is so vast that writer or team of writers can tell the story erywhere, today, the papers tell little stories of death of local boys overseas or in training hts at home, of local boys honored with medals heroism, of young men recently in high school, college, missing or captured by the Jap or man.

Young civilians are rare and may generally be credited with good reasons for deferment or exemption and men in uniform are everywhere, not only in the town where you happen to live, but in Kansas City and St. Louis, San Francisco, Los Angeles, in the south and southwest, in the east, everywhere.

At one place we have a marine base of astounding size, but only one of several. At one point the navy is training more than half as many men as Kaiser found available to stand off invasion in 1940 and that, too, is only one of several. Off in the desert, out of sight, divisions of soldiers come and go, many of them followed by their wives who endure hardship to be near them until they get orders and vanish without public notice.

In San Diego we find a big plant, almost a city by itself, which had no existence even on paper when France went down, where men and women, trained for their jobs since that day, contribute to a total output of planes beyond the arrogant boasting of the fuehrer Up the coast are several others and off in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas are others still, with engines coming in from Connecticut and Jersey, Chicago and Detroit.

One small city, once a drowsy settlement in no hurry about anything, has busted its seams to accommodate, in conditions not above the hardship level, the families of workers who have come from all over to modify big ships flown in to be adapted for flying in tropical war In another city of like size a similar plant makes changes required for the arctic.

Along all the coasts shipyards are turning out cargo vessels and warships of all dimensions and even in Denver, high and dry and landlocked, a thousand miles from the sea, small boats are built to carry the war to the Jap.

The peaceful, reluctant nation of 1940 which took the alarm from President Roosevelt in that dramatic speech to congress after France went down now has internment camps for enemy civilians and even some native civilians, and other camps for prisoners of war taken in action.

That, amid all this, some Americans can strike the war industries is no serious impairment of the general picture of war-minded diligence. To a far greater extent than the American people or Germany or Japan ever believed possible, the nation in three years has gone to war and day by day the mighty power grows.

ACQUITTED IN HOTEL SLAYING

Divorcee Freed After Telling of Fight With Wealthy Oil Man's Wife.

TULSA, Okla — (INS) — Mrs Ella B. Howard, Fort Worth, Tex., divorcee, was a free woman today, acquitted of a manslaughter charge in the fatal shooting last March 25 of Mrs. T. Karl Simmons, prominent Tulsa socialite and horsewoman.

Weeping with joy at her acquittal by a jury, Mrs. Howard threw her arms about her son, Louis Howard, jr., and was unable to regain her composure for several minutes.

The slain woman's husband, wealthy oil man, had testified of a friendship of seven or eight years with Mrs. Howard during which he admitted giving her diamond jewelry and $20,000 in cash

Mrs Howard, nervously and frequently with tears, told the jury Mrs Simmons, carrying a pistol, had invaded her room in a fashionable Tulsa hotel, crying "damn you, I'll kill you!"

Mrs. Howard testified that when Mrs. Simmons came to her room, she tried to shove her back out, but failed She said she seized the hand in which Mrs. Simmons carried the pistol and pushed it downward and that in the struggle the weapon was fired twice.

JUST A FRIEND

Woodall Testifies Mrs. Dempsey and He Platonic Pals.

WHITE PLAINS, N Y.—(U P)—Benny Woodall, a fight promoter who insists that his coast-to-coast relations with Hannah Williams Dempsey were ever platonic, testified in supreme court today that "as far as I was concerned, Mrs. Dempsey wasn't married."

Spectators in the courtroom for the eighth day of the double-barreled divorce suit brought by Lieut. Comdr. Jack Dempsey and the former musical comedy star, gasped, and the attorney for the former heavyweight champion was on his feet demanding elaboration.

Woodall hastened to explain that Mrs. Dempsey's marriage "made no difference because she was only a friend to me and I was no more than a friend to her."

DIES AT WORK

Leonard W. Black, 47, who roomed at 122 East Fourth street, died of a heart attack while at work at the Humphreys Manufacturing company at 5 p. m. Wednesday, according to Acting Coroner Blake Kohler.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Edith Black of Livingston, Ky. The body was removed to the Jones Memorial pending funeral arrangements.

Let's hope the woman who came in recently to the Mansfield Public Library with an overdue book heard Lowell Thomas tell of the return of a book 125 years overdue to a library in Detroit. "My goodness," said the Mansfielder as she placed her overdue book on the counter, "you'll be able to buy a new book with the fine I have to pay on this one" You can imagine the librarian's surprise when she opened the book and found that the lady in question owed just 2 cents.

Here's good news for Mansfield picnickers. Al Fendrick recreation director of the city park's summer playground program, has announced that any family, club or any other organization can obtain recreation equipment for their picnics by calling at the park headquarters, 54 North Mulberry street. Baskethalls, softballs, horseshoes, volleyballs, paddle tennis sets and boxing gloves can be borrowed without charge.

Literally hundreds of Mansfield Senior high school pupils have already found jobs for the summer to help speed up the city's war program, according to John H. Eisaman, clerk of the board of education and attendance officer. Eisaman should know, too, for he has issued nearly 400 working permits in the past two weeks and is still handling from 40 to 50 of them daily. The permits were using so much of his time that he set a two-hour period daily—from 9 to 11 a. m.—for issuing them. Most of the permits go to boys and girls from 16 to 18 years old, and the fact that many of the young people change jobs frequently adds to Eisaman's work, since a new permit is required for each job He found one boy who has worked at 19 different jobs since January.

DAD INDUCTION CHANCES LOW

Estimate Not More Than 17 Out of 100 To Be Called This Year, Fewer In '44.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A draft-age father's chances of being inducted into the armed forces before next year appeared today to be about 17 out of 100

The chances next year may be even lower unless heavy casualties require unexpectedly large replacements.

Farmer fathers generally will be deferred for occupational reasons, but the outlook for others sums up like this on the basis of latest war manpower commission-selective service figures:

Drafting of those with children born before last Sept 15 is not expected to begin before Aug. 1, and even if it starts then it is unlikely to become general and heavy for another month at least

There are nearly 6,000,000 draft age (non-farm) fathers — only about 4,000,000 of them at most could be expected to be physically acceptable—and the armed services will take in but about 1,500,000 men in all between Aug. 1 and Jan 1, 1944.

Toward making up this 1,500,000 the services get around 70,000 of the 100,000 becoming 18 years old each month, and should net 350,000 from this source from August on, not counting the youths past 18 who were deferred to the end of the school year.

At least 150,000 more inductees will come from the ranks of single or childless married men, especially as occupational deferments expire for men in that class and the drafting of fathers increases pressure to get men without children out of the shops and into uniform

With 500,000 or more inductees available from other classes, only 1,000,000 fathers at most will be needed in the ranks although perhaps twice as many may be called for physical examinations.

by REX HESS

Former News-Journal A-league golfer Johnny Kleshinski is still shooting a pretty fair stick in his time off from duty in Puerto Rico.

But I'll let him tell it to you as he told it to me, by air mail.

Dear Rex: Just a few things here and there. First of all we had a golf tournament here for all service men, including Air Corps, Army, Navy and Marines.

The tournament was a long distance from where we are, so our battery commander gave four of us a pass, and a command car for transportation.

We played 18 holes Friday and I had 37-43—80. Saturday morning 37-41—78, and in the afternoon 36-41—77 for a total of 235.

Par was 72. And what a tough 18 holes that was—sand traps and woods on either side of the fairways.

I stayed with the Air Corps and we sure were treated swell. Couldn't ask for anything more. We also went roller skating at night, and they really have a beautiful rink.

Oh, yes. I came in fifth in that tournament. Played with the two professionals who have charge of the course, Larry Pouldre from West Palm Beach, Fla., and Ben Nation from Texas.

Nation won the tournament with 217, and Pouldre was second with 218.

We've got a golf match with the Navy next Sunday at the club I play at, and will let you know how we make out.

I'm sending you some snapshots and negatives which you can use if you want to.

Adios,

Johnny.

Haegg Starts In Long Races

Not In Shape Yet To Test Legs In Mile.

HANOVER, N. H.—(AP)—Foot-racing followers who dote on the mile or its kindred 1500-meters are hereby warned that it will be some time before they have an opportunity to see Sweden's fabulous Gunner Haegg competing over those distances, which also are his favorites.

Haegg now has had a chance to regain his land-legs and—at Dartmouth college—test them under climatic conditions similar to those which graced his seven world record-smashing feats in his homeland last year.

As a result, he has practically decided to make his American debut in the 5,000-meter events in next week's National A. A. U. championships in New York. He regards himself as a bit too heavy—at 155 he's five pounds above his best running weight—to attempt the shorter distances just now. Besides, his legs are a bit stiff from his recent 27-day tanker voyage from Sweden to New Orleans.

"We have until Sunday to file Gunner's entry for the Nationals and I feel certain it will be for the 5,000 meters event. Axel Nordenist, one of his advisers, said today.

Since he arrived in Hanover Tuesday, Haegg has loosened up by taking two four-mile jaunts over the local golf course.

Cardinals Win 1-Run Decisions

Score Deciding Marker On Only One Hit.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE club that wins the one-run games wins the pennant in the National league according to the old sages of the senior circuit.

This diverting aspect of victory came in for considerable attention last year as the St. Louis Cardinals started streaking down the home stretch. From early August till the end of the season the Redbirds played 15 games which were decided by one run and they won 14 to them.

Discounting a pair of tie games, the Cardinals have had 24 of their 41 contests this season settled by one run and they have triumphed in 14 of the 24.

In comparison the Brooklyn Dodgers have played 18 games decided by one run and have lost 11 of them. Cincinnati has won eight out of 15 in the same category.

The Cardinals had another one of these close contests yesterday, the day's offly fracas in the National league, and they captured it 4-3 over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mort Cooper and Rip Sewell, two of the league's leading pitchers, were paired on the mound and came up to the ninth inning with the score tied 3-3.

Whitey Kurowski, playing for the first time since he hurt an eye on May 28, stretched a hard drive into a double to open the inning. Martin Marion was given an international walk. Cooper sacrificed, Lou Klein lifted a fly to left field and Kurowski raced home after the catch. Total for the inning—one hit, one run.

In the American league the first place New York Yankees also were idle, but the Washington Senators lost ground by dropping a 3-2 decision to the Boston Red Sox.

Jim Tabor and Tony Lupien hit home runs in the first inning to send Tex Hughson off in front and he continued to victory although giving eight hits to the six his teammates made off Dutch Leonard and Alex Carrasquel.

The Detroit Tigers slipped out of third place by losing a 3-1 verdict to the Chicago White Sox in spite of seven-hit pitching by Hal Newhouser. Detroit made four errors, three of them by Rudy York.

The Cleveland Indians ran into the day's worst ambush, however. On returning to their own park for the first time in two weeks they were beaten 6-0 by the last place St. Louis Browns and stumbled in to seventh place in the standings.

Lead Sliced To Two Games

Indianapolis Loses To Climbing Saints.

(By Associated Press)

Indianapolis' hold on first place in the American Association was reduced to two games last night as the league leaders resumed their losing ways and the challenging Milwaukee Brewers got back into winning stride.

Milwaukee won its sixth game in seven starts by roling over the skidding Columbus Redbirds, 5 to 2.

Indianapolis, after breaking a three game losing streak Tuesday, met a reverse yesterday at the hands of the aspiring St. Paul Saints, 4 to 3. It was St. Paul's ninth triumph in 13 games.

Kansas City and Louisville, who batted for 15 innings Tuesday before the Blues won, took on different foes, but still found themselves going extra innings Kansas City once more emerged a winner, defeating Toledo, 2 to 1 in the 10th.

At Minneapolis, the hapless Louisville Colonels bowed 4 to 3 in 10 innings, although they outhit the Millers 14-9.

Lamotta Favored Over Fritz Zivic

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—They're betting 7 to 5 that "youth will be served" tonight when 21-year-old Jake Lamotta, the 'Bronx One-Man Riot," meets 30-year-old Fritzie Zivic in a 10-round go at Forbes Field.

The odds had been 11 to 5 but that was before word got around that Jake would weigh in at 157 or maybe 156 instead of his former 160. Zivic expects to tip the scales at 151.

Some of the odds-makers remembered that Fritzie hasn't lost a bout in his home town in four years.

Both fighters have stated they expect to win by a knockout. Jake has three to his credit in eight fights this year, Fritzie one in his four nights.

DEADLINE SET FOR POSTPONED MATCHES

Postponed matches from the first two weeks of play in the News-Journal golf league at Possum Run must be played by next Tuesday, league officials have decided.

Instead of marking up forfeits, points on unplayed matches will be thrown out on both sides. Captains of league teams have been notified of the decision, and instructed to tell the players who have postponements to play off.

Big Scores League Rule

Westinghouse, U. E. 758 Swamp Industrial Foes.

Big scores were the rule in the Industrial softball league last evening as United Electrical Workers 758 scored a 24-4 victory over Great Lakes local 2845, Westinghouse swamped Ideal Electric 23-2, and Barnes defeated Tappans by the somewhat more respectable score of 11-8.

Westinghouse scored in every inning but the fourth, and chalked up 11 runs in the 7th. U. E. 758 got a late start, but made up for it with a 14-run splurge in the eighth.

Barnes took an early lead and held it, staving off a determined Tappan rally in the late frames.

Latins Click For Griffith

Vindicate Old Fox of Washington Senators.

By DILLON GRAHAM
(AP Features Sports Writer)

NEW YORK — Clark Griffith, the old grey fox with the panatella, is chuckling these days at his baseball rivals who snickered when he imported that batch of Cuban players.

Most of the quips making the rounds of the spring training belt in Florida, some years ago, centered around the Washington owner and the Cubans, Puerto Ricans and South Americans he had assembled at his Orlando camp. The idea that these neighbors from the south could play major league calibre ball was ridiculous, not to say, ludicrous.

Griff just holed in behind the smoke of his thin cigar and continued giving his Spanish speaking athletes the once over.

Some stuck and performed so well that other clubs began signing these foreigners from south of the border. Right now the A's, Cubs and Senators are cashing in on their imports, the other clubs are envious, the Giants are giving the experiment a try at first base and only Bucky Harris of the Phillies is undisturbed.

It was Harris, then manager of the Senators, who bore the brunt of the Cuban invasion. Griff had so many gentlemen from Havana and Almendares that they got into Bucky's hair. Everywhere he turned he bumped into one.

It got so that he practically had to carry an interpreter around with him. Whenever he walked out to the mound to correct a pitching motion fault he had to say his piece to the interpreter and then stand around impatiently, shifting from one foot to another, while his orders were translated. Harris no spika da Spanish and the chatter of these foreign recruits sounded like gee-chee to him.

The real pioneer in Cuban talent wasn't Griff. It was a stocky little chap called Joe Cambria, a laundryman, as I recall, who doubled as a scout for the Senators. Cambria apparently had the market cornered in the countries to the south and turned up every spring with a fresh crop. Cambria was a good salesman, he talked a great game for each of his prospects.

Four years ago he came up with a towering giant named Roberto Ortiz, who was tagged as another Walter Johnson. The guy was awfully fast but he had only a shady notion as to the location of the plate.

The giant Cuban's first day warmup wounded two Washington catchers and Harris finally had to beg the services of Al Lopez, who was visiting the Senators' camp. Lopez, of Spanish descent, could speak the language. Harris finally gave up on Ortiz. And wiser heads than Cambria decided if Ortiz belonged anywhere in a ball park it was in the distant reaches of the outfield.

That was a good move. Last year outfielder Ortiz, playing with Chattanooga, led Southern Association batters with .360. The Phillies grabbed him. But that was before Harris was named manager. One of his first acts was to let Ortiz go to the Dodgers, who shunted him to Montreal.

Giants Try Cuban.

The Giants are the latest to try the Cuban way. Old Dolf Luque, perhaps the greatest of the major leaguers produced by the island republic, probably whispered into Mel Ott's ear of the exploits of his countrymen. Anyway, the Giants called up Napoleon Reyes, from their Jersey City farm, for a try at first base.

Sensation of this young season has been Jesse Flores, the flower of Guadalajara. The little Mexican has won five straight games for the A's. Connie Mack has another Cuban, Robert Estalella, in the outfield. Washington brought Roberto up, too, some years ago.

And the Senators are very happy over the success Alejandro (Alex) Carrasquel, a pitcher they've had for three years who is suspected of owning a few years more than the 30 he admits. Alex, from Caracas, Venezuela, has won four straight without a setback.

The Cubs have Hiram Bithorn, a Puerto Rican, who takes a regular pitching turn, and Salvador Hernandez, a catcher from Havana. Booklyn had an outfielder from Puerto Rico, Luis Olmo, but he was shipped to Montreal.

Yep, the only time Griffith isn't chuckling over the fireworks of the chaps from down south is when Flores pitches against the Senators.

SCRIBE'S MANAGER COVERS BALL GAMES

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Tom Anderson, sports columnist and baseball writer for the Knoxville Journal, called in his wife to cover a Southern Association baseball game for the newspaper.

Forthwith came an appreciative note from a subscriber.

News editor Steve Humphries said Mrs Anderson would cover the remainder of the Knoxville club's home games. Anderson will stick to his column.

Stengel Has Weapons Now

Cast and Crutches Threaten Umpires.

By JACK CUDDY

BOSTON—(U.P.)—All was quiet in St. Elizabeth's hospital in suburban Brighton when suddenly Casey Stengel roared, "I'll murder those umpires now; at last I've got the weapons."

Stengel is like a compressed bundle of T-N-T. He is ready to explode June 18 when he resumes active managership of the Braves. That will be nearly two months after he had his right shinbone shattered in an automobile accident.

Casey, leaning back on his cot with his leg in a cast, said: "I have just had myself measured for crutches. They will help me bear up under this cast until the Braves get home again. Then I'll really move in—kicking the umpires with my cast and batting them with my crutches."

He added:

"It's a lucky thing for those umpires that I was tied to this cot during the close games of the Braves recent western tour. They won only three and lost nine on that trip, but most of their defeats were of short order or over the extra-session route."

The Braves, once in second place now are in fifth.

"I guess the boys played over their heads early in the season just to give me something to sing about on my hospital cot," Stengel said. "But you could forget about me and the inspiration, because they had two grand guys directing them—in my place—Coaches George Kelley and Bob Coleman."

Stengel expected much of the 1943 squad. And the men upon whom he depended to lift the Braves into first division in the National league came through.

"We got a better club this year," he added. "Whether it would be more effective if I were out of the hospital or on the bench I don't know. But, if we have those close and extra-inning games when the team comes home, you'll see me in there swinging at the umpires with my crutches and my right-leg cast."

ORGANIZE LEAGUE

An organization meeting of the Junior Parks Softball league will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the Y. M. C. A. building. Captains of all league teams should be present.

Cellar Yawns for Skidding Cleveland

Tribe Slipping From Top To Bottom In Less Than 3 Weeks.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians, three games removed from last place today, are in a position to descend from the roof to the cellar in less than three weeks.

The tail-end St. Louis Browns shut out the Tribe 6 to 0 in the series opener yesterday and moved within three games of the Redskins. If the Browns can win the remaining four tussles Manager Lou Boudreau's "team to beat" will hit rock bottom.

Jim Bagby made his fourth unsuccessful start and was blasted from the mound in the third inning. He wouldn't have received much help from his mates if he had gone the distance because Bob Muncrief delivered a two-hit performance.

The Brownies jumped into the lead in the second frame when George McQuinn lifted a homer over League park's right field screen with two on.

Bagby walked Don Gutteridge to start the third. Gutteridge was forced at second but Chet Laabs dropped a hit-and-run single into right field. Vern Stephens followed with another single to produce the Browns' fourth run. Bagby made his exit after hitting Mike Chartak to load the sacks but Vern Kennedy donated another marker by issuing a pass to McQuinn. Harland Clift's fly tallied Stephens with the final run of the game.

Kennedy allowed St. Louis two hits in six and two-thirds innings but the Indians could manufacture only two singles in the entire contest. Jeff Heath collected a one-baser in the fourth, Roy Cullenbine followed suit in the seventh and that was all.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds were deadheaded into undisputed possession of third place in the National league standings yesterday by virtue of the St. Louis Cardinals victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3.

Their position is none too secure, however, as a glance at the standings today indicates they are hanging on to the third rung by a single percentage point.

All of this happened while the Reds were playing the second of three exhibition games with teams of the armed forces. Yesterday the Cincinnati boys humbled the soldiers at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., 8 to 0.

A twilight contest with the Great Lakes Naval station nine, led by big Johnny Mize, former National league home run king, is on the menu for this evening.

Manager Bill McKechnie has been looking over some of his new material of the Reds' exhibition jaunt and has been particularly impressed by the hitting and fielding of Outfielder Dain Clay, obtained last Sunday in a deal with the Philadelphia Phils.

The Reds move to Chicago Friday for the first of a four game series with the Cubs.

Scramble for College Title

Small Teams Entered In National Meet.

By TOMMY DEVINE

EVANSTON, Ill. — (U.P.) — A wide open scramble for the championship of the 22nd annual National Collegiate Athletic association's track and field meet was indicated today as the competitors assembled for their final workouts.

The meet opens tomorrow at Northwestern University with preliminaries in 10 events. Finals in the 14 events on the championship program will be decided Saturday. Thirty-nine schools are sending a total of 150 athletes.

The most prominent star missing is A. Richmond (Boo) Morcom of the University of New Hampshire, a three-event winner in the IC4A outdoor meet at New York last month. Morcom now is in the army, stationed at Camp Wheeler, Ga.

The field is topped by four defending champions—Harold Davis of the University of California in the 100 yard dashes; Cliff Bourland of Southern California in the 440 yard dash; Dallas Dupre of Ohio State in the broad jump and Jack Defield of Minnesota in the pole vault.

Only Davis, the newest of the California comets, appears certain to retain his crowns. "Hurrying Hal" has a 9.5 seconds mark to his credit in the century and has negotiated the 220 in 20.8 seconds. He is looked upon as a sure double winner.

The other 1942 champions have been dogged by bad luck. Bourland suffered a leg injury early in the campaign and never has approached the 48.2 seconds mark which he compiled to win at Lincoln, Neb., last year. Dupre missed the Big Ten indoor championships and a portion of the outdoor schedule because of injuries and still isn't in top form. Defield wasn't restored to the eligibility list until the May meeting of the Big Ten and consequently goes into the NCAA event with only slight outdoor competitive work.

The well-rounded 20-man squads that formerly were entered by every title-contending school are a war-time casualty. The largest entries are the eight athletes named by New York university, Michigan State and the University of Washington.

Quality rather than quantity is the keynote of the meet. The University of Missouri, with a five-man team, and California with four stars carrying its hopes are the co-favorites for the championship.

Bunched closely back of them in the team rating are Illinois, New York U., Minnesota, Rice and the Oklahoma Aggies.

AXIS PRISONERS TRYING TO BE FRIENDLY CHAPS

Entertain Americans on Board Prison Ship; Italians and Nazis Separated.

(Editor's Note: The attitude of Axis prisoners toward America and of American soldiers toward their prisoners is analyzed in the following dispatch by Edward W. Beattie, United Press war correspondent who has covered this war in Berlin, Poland, Britain and Tunisia. Many thousands of Axis prisoners are arriving in this country.)

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE
(UP Staff Correspondent)

AN AMERICAN CONVOY, AT SEA, May 25—(Delayed)—This ship is carrying Axis prisoners to America and they provide a startling picture of what has happened to our enemy.

It is not a picture in black and white, it is a complex and changing composite of how Germans and Italians reacted to their crushing defeat in Tunisia.

There was for instance the cocky group of young German officers who exercised over their men, who are also prisoners, the Prussian discipline that ruled the Nazi lines in Tunisia. The other night, for instance, a German soldier who was formerly a socialist refused to stand up when two Nazi officers entered his room.

The officers demanded that the ex-socialist be shot and were disappointed when American officers refused to order it.

But the common soldiers are not the haughty men of 1940. They want to be friendly. They have staged benefit performances for the ship's company, including wounded Americans, and have put on boxing and wrestling exhibitions. Some of the officers have participated, but other officers have been more concerned about what living conditions they will find in the United States and a few were slightly incensed when they were told that they would not have riding horses at their places of imprisonment.

There is a deep cleavage between the Germans and Italians. They are quartered by nationality and during their daily airing on deck each group stays away from the other. The Italian officers seem to have little control over their men.

Some of the Italian prisoners gave their officers to understand — by Neapolitan gestures —upon coming aboard that their authority had ceased. The Italians claim the Germans have stolen their food in Italy and at the front and that the Nazis shot Italians who tried to surrender. A few of the Italians doing kitchen police duty the other day got back at the infuriated representatives of the Herrenvolk by getting first crack at the stewed plums set aside for both Germans and Italians. None of the Germans got stewed plums that day.

Two platoons of Germans have been chipping paint on deck and repainting part of the ship, thus getting to spend all day instead of of a couple of hours in the open. A few Italians have been scrubbing decks

In their cabins, the prisoners have plenty of room. They eat and sleep under about the same conditions as American troops. Their food is the same and those with access to the galley can sometimes scrounge ice cream for themselves.

One day two German officers wandered out on deck and encountered a couple of good natured American soldiers playing shuffleboard. The Germans had just about taken over the game when the M. P.'s sighted them and chased them back to quarters.

Reaction to the prisoners is mixed among the Americans. Nobody seemed to begrudge them their first coffee in four years, a comfortable bunk and plenty of fresh air. But most of the officers believe there has been too much fraternizing. They don't want to encourage the idea that the Germans "aren't such bad fellows after all." They emphasize that there are still millions of Germans like those who have to be licked on the battlefield.

"With all the entertainment that's being handed us by the prisoners," one officer said, "I'm beginning to wonder who is host and who are guests around here."

An American soldier, just about recovered from his wounds, looked down at the empty swimming pool and said wistfully: "Gee, I wish the prisoners would ask for some water in the pool so we could all have a swim."

But Farmers Find They Have To Have Other Equipment.

Richland county farmers had two state highway department tractors today to help them with their delayed spring planting, but the farmers found they needed plows and harrows as well as tractors.

County Agent George B. Ganyard said the tractors were not in operation because all the available plows and cultivating equipment is already in use. He named a farmer in each township to receive applications for renting tractors.

ARMY SOLVES RIDDLE OF MEN WITH BAD FEET

Corrective Shoes Now Permit Use of Recruits Formerly Rejected for Service.

(By International News Service)

FORT DEVENS, Mass.—The army has licked the problem of covering a deformed foot with shoes which appear normal and permit the wearer to walk in comfort.

The announcement, implying that men with deformed or subnormal feet will be available for active service, was made by Major Edward K. Hovas. He is head of the regimental supply office of the recruit reception center at the fort, where experiments were conducted.

The army hopes to make the plaster casts used in making the shoes available to the soldiers when they return to civilian life.

The expansion of the army has meant calling up for limited service many men with deformed or subnormal feet. The supply office was confronted with the problem of supplying shoes which would allow them to discharge their duties.

Deformities included club feet, claw toes, hammer toes and other malformations resulting from infantile paralysis, arthritis and accidents.

Many of the men had not worn corrective shoes even in civilian life because of lack of means, finances or initiative.

Under the supervision of Major Hovas, experiments were conducted in co-operation with the army Medical Corps, the Boston Quartermaster depot and a Boston firm specializing in corrective footwear.

Plaster casts duplicating the feet of the men were obtained and wooden shoe lasts prepared. Tailormade shoes were turned out by the firm. They appeared normal but their interior construction permitted the wearer to walk in comfort.

Today, soldiers are wearing these shoes at Devens and, for the first time, walking with ease and absence of fatigue.

Questioned about his "new" shoes, one enlisted man said, "I intend to wear them to bed."

The experiments successful, equipment was installed at the regimental supply office for the manufacture of the shoes at the fort.

Wounded Yank Brings Souvenirs From Africa

Wounded in the Maknassy area during the Tunisian campaign, Pvt. Mason Parker returns to the United States with a couple of souvenirs of his trip to North Africa. He is pictured aboard the hospital train that met his ship at an east coast port as he showed Lieut. Viola Heyden of Norway, Mich., a guide to North Africa and an ornate bag from Casablanca. U. S. BUILDING DROPS SHARPLY IN CITY

Five-Month Total of $42,940 Eight Per Cent of Figure For Last Year.

War-time restrictions have virtually halted building construction in Mansfield with project expenditures for the first five months of the year amounting to only about eight per cent of the total for the corresponding period of 1942.

Building permits issued at the city building to June 1 represent projects totaling only $42,940 as against $532,906 for the first five months of last year.

Rebuilding of the Hartman Electric Manufacturing company plant, badly damaged by fire last winter, accounted for $35,000 of the five-month total this year, while $2,500 was invested in an addition to the offices of the Commercial Motor Freight company. Only other permits issued so far this year were for minor home repairs and small garages.

Permits were obtained last month for $3,145 worth of building as compared with a total of $10,710 in May, 1942.

Many new homes were built during the early part of 1942 and expansion of the Westinghouse plant added approximately $200,000 to the total for the first five months of last year. The government ban on new construction, except for essential jobs, was clamped on late in the spring of 1942, however, forcing builders to curtail their operations.

RETURNS BOOK 114 YEARS LATE

Man Has Blessing of Detroit Library, Though He Doesn't Pay.

DETROIT — (INS) — Officials at Detroit's downtown library were happy today. An unidentified man walked in yesterday and laid Fenelon's "Adventures of Telemachus" on the desk. The book was listed as missing from the library in the Nov. 12, 1829 issue of the "Detroit Gazette."

Officials were so happy over the return of the book, after 114 years absence, that they weren't too put out when they discovered the man forgot to pay the $787.80 fine.

TIRES OF HIS CLOTHES

SAN RAFAEL, Cal.—(U.P.)—The police responded to a hurry call from the Red Cross stating that a young man in a locked, parked car was taking off all his clothes in public. By the time the speeding police got there, the young man was completely nude. He was 3 years old, and remained in that condition until his mother arrived with the car's keys.

It's important to make Your Home a safer Health Stronghold!

Cultivate the Healthful Habit of Hygienic Home Cleanliness!

HEALTH TODAY is more important than ever. Important to the well-being of your family! Important to the producing power of your country!

Consider this: U.S. Public Health Service estimates that each day illness keeps one million workers from their jobs . . . delaying production so vital to Victory. That's one reason why health authorities urge you to take greater precautions against germs . . . germs which can cause sickness, even epidemics. It's a patriotic duty to cooperate!

One efficient precaution is the use of a household disinfectant in the cleansing of home germ "danger zones", especially in kitchen, bathroom, laundry. Yes, and such precaution is a health safeguard . . . like washing hands, brushing teeth, bathing. Make your home a health stronghold for your family . . . and for America.

The CLOROX WAY is the easy, effective way to Greater Home Sanitation!

Combat Kitchen Germ Dangers! Kitchens may look clean, yet harbor millions of germs. Clorox disinfects, deodorizes, removes stains from dishes, glassware, tile, enamel, linoleum, wood surfaces; it bleaches and removes stains from dishcloths . . . makes them hygienically clean.

Make Bathrooms Sanitary! Bathrooms are often the most dangerous of all home "danger zones" and may menace health unless made hygienically clean. For added health protection, use Clorox in routine cleansing of washbasins, bathtubs, toilets, floors, tile, woodwork.

Linens . . . Longer Life, Sanitary! Today, when linens must wear longer they need Clorox more than ever. For Clorox lessens rubbing, prolonging life of linens . . . it gently bleaches white cottons and linens (brightens fast colors), makes them fresh, sanitary . . . an added safeguard to health.

WHY TAKE CHANCES! "When it's CLOROX-CLEAN it's hygienically clean!"

CLOROX is ultra-refined, free from caustic, an exclusive quality feature. It is pure, safe, dependable . . . efficient yet gentle in use . . . concentrated for economy. Follow directions carefully . . . avoid waste of a product so valuable in protecting health. There is only one Clorox . . . order by name.

SHOWS INCREASE

Air Travel Between North and South America Doubles.

MIAMI, Fla.—(INS)—Commercial air traffic between the Americas has been almost doubled over that of a year ago, it was revealed in a Pan American Airways summary of operations for the first quarter of 1943.

Clipper planes of the Eastern division fleet—serving the Caribbean Central and South America—showed an increase of 75 per cent in piling up more than 3,000,000 miles of flight during the period.

Air cargo—moving for the most part under government priorities—showed an even larger rate of increase. For instance, during March, the clippers flew 248,336 express ton miles, an increase of 134 per cent over the 106,012 ton miles of March, 1942.

Passenger miles of the eastern division totaled 10,411,604 for March, as compared to 9,017,293 for the same month last year.

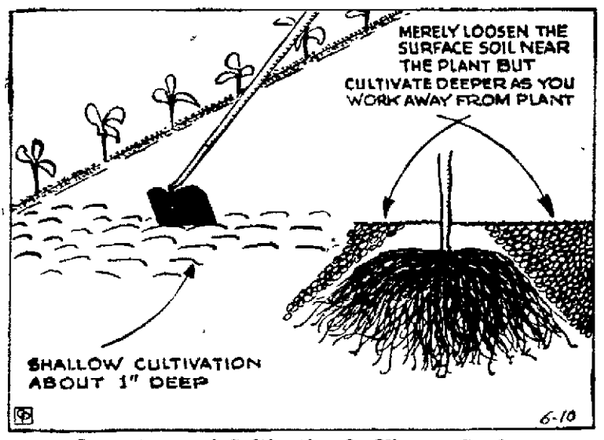
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



MERELY LOOSEN THE SURFACE SOIL NEAR THE PLANT BUT CULTIVATE DEEPER AS YOU WORK AWAY FROM PLANT

Importance of Cultivation In Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Released by Central Press Assn.)

Keeping the Victory vegetable garden cultivated is an important duty at all times but it is especially so when the crops are making their main growth. The reasons for cultivation are, first, to destroy the weeds which compete with the vegetable plants for food and moisture from the soil; second, cultivation keeps the lower layers of soil from drying out by creating a protective dust mulch on the surface of the soil third, cultivation by loosening the soil helps to keep it aerated.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, cultivation need not be deeper than an inch or two If the weeds are small it will not be necessary to remove them, since they will wilt and die after being uprooted.

Cultivate between plants as well as along the row. Early in the season one can cultivate more deeply close to the plants, but later as the roots grow, cultivation should be shallow near the plants and deeper only as the hoe works away from the plants, as illustrated in the Garden-Graph

Do not cultivate the soil when it is wet, since it will have a tendency to ball and lump As soon as it is dry enough break the upper crust by cultivation to prevent the surface soil from baking Good gardeners cultivate after rains just as soon as the soil on the surface is no longer sticky

Baby clothes must be sanitary, snowy-white. Use Roman Cleanser to disinfect, whiten. Save hard rubbing, boiling. Directions on the label.

Now Is the Time to Have Your Furnace Inspected

The Shortage of Manpower For Furnace Work Will Be the Cause of Many Furnaces Still In Need of Repair When Fall Comes

Government regulations permit replacement of any broken or worn-out parts. Have us inspect your furnace now without cost or obligation to you, and be assured of a clean and comfortable heating plant when again needed. If you have a blower system, be sure to have your filter replaced, while still available, and your motor properly serviced.

Borrow at Household without fuss or bother on your salary, furniture or car—without endorsers. Pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Example: a $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly instalments of $9.24 each costs $5.44, but if repaid in one month costs only $1.50. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 3% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 but not exceeding $300, and 1½% per month on any remainder.

EARLY MARKET PRICES TAKE UNEVEN TREND

Some Leaders Get Fractional Boost, Others Decline By Same Margin.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Early prices were a shade uneven in today's market proceedings.

Up fractionally at a quiet opening were Texas Co., American Telephone, Safeway Stores, Electric Power & Light, Western Union, Woolworth and Southern Pacific. Small declines were posted for Great Northern, Pennsylvania, United Air Lines, Southern Railway, Anaconda and Radio Corp.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Announcement of a government loan rate somewhat lower than expected brought moderate selling into the wheat pit today. Rye eased and oats held steady.

The loan on the 1943 wheat crop is $1.41 a bushel for No. 2 hard at Chicago, or about 2 cents under grain trade estimates.

Wheat started ⅛-½ lower. July $1.44⅞-¾. September $1.44¾-⅞, and then declined further. Rye started ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, July 96⅛, and then turned downward.

GALION HOGS

GALION —(Swift & Co.)— Market 15c higher, receipts 200; 120-140 lbs. $12; 140-160 lbs. $12.75; 160-180 lbs. $13.65; 180-250 lbs. $13.85; 250-300 lbs. $13.75; 300-330 lbs. $13.60. Sows up to 400 lbs. $13; 400-450 lbs. $12.75; 450-600 lbs. $12.50.

U. S. TREASURY REPORT

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Treasury balance June 8 was $11,510,812,376.24.

THEATERS

Continues Today.

The submarine saga, "Crash Dive," 20th Century-Fox's production of the men of Uncle Sam's giant fish, continues today at the Ohio. Tyrone Power is cast in the leading role, with Anne Baxter and Dana Andrews featured in the supporting cast. Power, as junior officer, leads his men on a daring undersea raid on enemy shipping, and tops it off by staging a raid on an enemy re-fueling base. It is Power's last picture for duration, the handsome star now being a member of the marines.

Capital Fun.

"Dixie Dugan" goes gallivanting in war-time Washington in her first screen comedy, which is now showing at the Madison. The comic strip hero is played by Lois Andrews, former Broadway showgirl and herself a newcomer to pictures. Featured in the film are James Ellison, Charlotte Greenwood and Charlie Ruggles. The whole Dugan clan is on the loose in the nation's capital. Pa Dugan is an air raid warden and Ma helps him out, too. The Madison co-attraction is "Undercover Man," starring Bill Boyd as "Hopalong" Cassidy.

German Officer.

Now playing a German officer in the P. R. C. film, "Miss V From Moscow," William Vaughn recalled the fact that years ago he was a commissioned officer in the Imperial German army. His son is a lieutenant in the field artillery and also a staff officer at Fort Sill, Okla. Vaughn is in great demand for parts depicting typical German officers, for he was the very thing in real life, and knows how to play the part with lifelike fidelity. He has portrayed 15 German officer parts in as many films. "Miss V From Moscow" is now at the Ritz. Other picture at that theater is "Truck Busters."

Blackie Goes Hollywood.

Boston Blackie tangles with a blackmailing beauty to trap a gang of jewel thieves in his newest picture, "Boston Blackie Goes Hollywood," now at the Park. The film opens with Blackie (Chester Morris) and his pal, The Runt (George E. Stone), ready to board a train for Florida and a vacation. But just as they are visualizing the warm Florida sunshine, Blackie receives a telegram from Arthur Manleder. The telegram asks Blackie to go to Manleder's New York apartment, obtain $60,000 from a wall safe and fly to Hollywood. There went the vacation and the picture got off to a fast start. 'Cat People" is the other film.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Picnic Planned—The Be Willing Friends class of Central Methodist church will hold a picnic at 6:30 p. m. Friday at South park.

Nurses Feted — Members of the graduating class of Mansfield General hospital school of nursing will be honored with a tea today at Nurses' home from 2 to 4 p. m.

Hear Ganyard — Optimist club members heard George B. Ganyard, county extention agent, outline America's wartime food problem yesterday at their meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

To Appear In Court—Leo Erickson was ordered to appear in common pleas court June 12 at 9 a. m. on contempt of court charge. Complaint was filed by Bessie Erickson who charges non-support.

Treated for Bite — Marilyn Jones, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones, 81 Chilton avenue, was treated today for a dog bite on her right leg. The animal, recently vaccinated against rabies, was ordered tied for 10 days.

Gets $1 Fine—Mrs. Elizabeth Brackins, colored, Lily street, was fined $1 and costs in municipal court today for assault and battery. The charge was filed by Ruth Green, also colored, who contended she was cut on the arms by broken bottles and glasses thrown by the defendant.

Teacher Admitted—Miss Pearl Danback, 223 South Franklin avenue, dean of girls and geometry teacher at Mansfield Senior high school, was admitted to Mansfield General hospital last night for surgical treatment. Her condition this morning was reported "good."

Meet Friday—Air raid wardens in Zone A, headed by Frank Sprang, senior warden, will meet at 6:30 p. m. Friday at the Liberty park shelter house for a business and social session. A number of wardens will be sworn in after completing their first aid training, it was announced.

Money Stolen — Mrs. Martin Hubner, 18 Bentley street, reported to police today that $38 in cash was stolen from a buffet drawer between 2:30 and 6 a. m. today. Police found the back door to the home open, they said, but there were no marks to show it had been pried open.

Two Pay — Two motorists, Pete Disanzo, 19 Wolfe avenue, and Curtis W. Churchhill, Akron, signed waivers and posted $16.30 in Mansfield municiual court on charges of speeding on U. S. Route 42 last night, state patrolmen reported. Disanze was clocked at 70 miles per hour and Churchhill at 65, officers said.

Finds Bicycle — An abandoned bicycle, stolen several days ago from the Paul Hale home, 189 East Fourth street, was found last night at the Brooker Brothers motor freight headquarters, rear of 282 North Diamond street, by a member of the firm. It was turned over to police who held it for Hale.

Confiscate Gun — A 13-year-old South Mulberry street boy today had the unpleasant task of having to go to Police Chief Meade K. Bates to recover his air rifle which was taken last night by police after the boy was reported shooting it near the Mulberry street viaduct. Officers ordered the youth to ask the police chief for his gun and explain why he had been shooting it in the city.

Graduates June 16—Robert E. Robnolte, Mansfield traffic officer, will be graduated June 16 from the traffic institute at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., and is expected to return to traffic duty here July 1. He has been in the school for the past four and a half months, chosen to attend as the result of examinations conducted for traffic officers.

Atty. Marriott began practicing law in Shelby and returned to private practice in Mansfield after leaving the prosecutor's office in 1941.

Five Democratic incumbents will seek re-election to city offices, including two veterans, Auditor Paul L. Kelley and Fred Miller, Fifth ward councilman. Others who will run again are Treasurer Earle K. Troll, Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner, and Michael Mihalick, Fourth ward councilman.

Glenn A. Davidson, former city treasurer, will be the Democratic candidate for council president, while the council candidates will include Mrs. Brook, Harry M. Bowman, and Herman F. Speas for council-at-large; Boyd Wierman in the Third ward, and Irvin S. Eller in the Sixth ward. Bowman is president of the Mansfield Parks association.

On the G. O. P. ticket with Mayor W. J. Locke will be Kyle and Carter for council president, Paul Houston for city treasurer, Roy W. Vaughn and James Anderson for council-at-large, Russell Porch, First ward council; Shultz, Second ward; Clifford Knarr, Third ward, and Paul Bush, Sixth ward.

The Republicans need one council-at-large candidate, others for auditor, solicitor, and for Fourth and Fifth ward councilmen. These two last places on the ticket probably won't be filled, however, party leaders said.

GBS WANTS TO ALTER SPELLING

Playwright Says It Would Save Enough To Pay For War.

LONDON —(U.P.)— George Bernard Shaw said today that the use of simplified spelling would save enough money to pay for the coming Allied offensive as well as the entire war.

Writing in the letter column of the Times, he cited as an example the use of "fone" instead of "phone." He urged letter writers to consider how eliminating one letter would conserve labor, save machinery and paper and increase the number of plays a Shakespeare could write in a lifetime.

He proposed a 42-letter alphabet that would enable one to spell "though" with two letters.

B-17 Bombardier Sinks Jap Destroyer, Transport.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA — (INS) — Before leaving home, First Lieut. Edward Feille, of San Antonio, Texas, told his father he would sink a Japanese ship for him.

He got the ship for his father, and sank another for himself. One of the best B-17 bombardiers, Feille is credited with a destroyer and transport.

He sank the destroyer on the day after the Bismarck Sea battle. He had just loosed his bombs against the warship when the plane was attacked by 20 Zeros.

For good measure, Feille took over the nose gun and sent one of the Japanese fighters crashing into the sea.

SPORTS PROGRAM FOR EMPLOYED GIRLS BEING ARRANGED AT Y. W.

Tennis, archery, badminton, swimming, volleyball and softball will be included in the summer sports program for employed girls which is being set up by the Y. W. C. A.

Believing that relaxing, healthful physical activity is especially important amid war tension, Y. W. C. A. officials have planned this sports program for working girls between the ages of 17 and 30.

Registrations for the summer program will be held from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Friday and Saturday at the Y. W. C. A. Sports will be conducted each Tuesday and Thursday evening beginning June 15 between 7 and 8:30 p. m.

Tennis will be taught at courts on the corner of Park avenue west and Linden road. Players are to provide their own racquets, balls, and tennis shoes. Other sports will be in Middle and South parks with swimming at the North park pool.

Miss Alice Rhoads and Miss Helen Rantz are co-chairmen of the sports council with Ann Marie McQuaid organizing tennis, Mary Dove supervising softball, Marjorie Mountain in charge of hiking, and Harriet Stevens heading picnic arrangements. Miss Janet Kelly will teach archery.

Mansfielder One Of Five Awarded Honors By Navy

Frank Mowery, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mowery, 188 Sturges avenue, who is now serving in the U. S. navy, was one of the five radiomen to receive personal congratulations of Admiral Furlong, commandant at Pearl Harbor, and a letter from Admiral Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet.

The commendation was for "unique" and "splendid" achievement in getting the heavy cruiser U. S. S. Minneapolis and the destroyer U. S. S. Shaw back into service after the Dec. 7 raid, word to his parents said today.

Recognition service was held May 5, when naval officers were also honored.

In October, 1941, Mowery and Arl Williams, also from Mansfield, applied for machinist ratings in the Bureau of Ships, U. S. N. At the request of the bureau, Mowery changed his application to radioman first class. Both boys were accepted and on Dec. 8, asked to be sent immediately to Hawaii. Their request was granted and they arrived at the base in time to work 11-hour days, seven days a week, helping to clean up the effects of the raid.

GIRLS TOLD TO WAIT

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — (U.P.) — Almost the entire feminine membership of a Cheyenne high school swamped the marine recruiting office here recently after an erroneous rumor was circulated that the new organization of "Women Marines" was accepting girls of 17 or over. Although 17-year-old boys may sign up for marine service, the recruiters told the disappointed girls they must wait until they are at least 20.

From the safety of unbombed ome, the Italian radio boasted: As each hour goes by, we await e enemy at Pantelleria. We are ady and waiting."

However, it was quite possible at instead of a direct assault, e Allied command might have cided to make Pantelleria the bject of an experiment by blast- g it into submission from the y and sea.

The effect would be a formidable boomerang to any hopes Rome might have of making the sland an "Italian Corregidor," mulating Gen. Douglas Mac- rthur's heroic stand in the Philippines, and would emphaize the fate in store for Italy erself.

On the Russian front, Soviet adquarters reported the Red mies had crushed two more Ger- an feeler attacks as the Nazis ntinued to probe Russian de- nses along the 1,500-mile battle e.

The latest German thrusts, fore- adowing the imminence of long- pected summer battles, centered ound Lisichansk on the Donets ver and in the Smolensk sector. Hitler's high command again re- rted Russian sea-borne move- nts against the east coast of e Sea of Azov, north of Kerch rait, and declared German planes stroyed 16 more Soviet landing ats yesterday.

. S. Doubles Its ombers In Britain

LONDON— (INS) —America's avy bomber strength in Britain s increased 100 per cent since t March and will be doubled ain by September, Maj.-Gen. Ira Eaker, chief of the United ates aerial bombardment com- nd, said at a news conference iay.

In discussing present and future erational policy he declared, "the erall efficiency curve of the ghth air force as a combat unit s gone way up and presents an ogether encouraging and threat- ing picture for the future."

. S. To Experiment ith Night Bombings

LONDON — (AP) — The United ates army air force, rapidly in- easing its strength in planes and n, has assigned a unit of Fly- g Fortresses to undertake night mbing experiments from Brit- n with the Royal Air Force, a iable source said today.

Their light, day camouflage ainted over with the black of he RAF's night-riding Lancas- ers and Halifaxes, the Fortress- s soon will join the RAF in ight attacks on Germany, it as said.

Experience gained by American ews on these flights, it was add- will be used as a possible basis training other United States my air force airmen for night ays by American squadrons.

The Fortresses originally were uipped and the crews trained high-level daylight precision mbing, which proved to be a sational success despite the de- sive efforts of the German air ce and the early skepticism of itish commentators.

"It's a damned serious thing," olf Hitler's newspaper Voelki- er Beobachter was quoted.

ir Fights Spread ver Soviet Front

MOSCOW — (AP) — Increasingly orous air battles were reported ay from widely separated points the front as the German air ce and the Soviet plane fleet ntinued to fight it out in a pre- e to a 1943 land offensive.

Dispatches from Bataisk, 10 miles south of Rostov, disclosed that air fighting had flared up again in the Don river valley. The vicinity of the city and the mud flats of the Don have become a cemetery for downed Junkers and Heinkel planes, it was reported, with anti-aircraft batteries scoring heavily.

The news of the Don basin aerial war came on the heels of German raids on the Volkhov front 60 miles southeast of Leningrad, where 24 German planes were reported shot down. From 150 to 160 German planes were declared destroyed in Russian bombing raids on German airdromes Tuesday night. The Russians said they lost 26 planes in the engagements.

first official listing of battle casualties and arrests made since last Friday.

The report stated that 112 persons had been treated at emergency hospitals for "serious" injuries received in the zoot suit war. Of the total, 94 were civilians and 18 were servicemen.

Police estimated that at least 135 other persons suffered injuries but did not report for treatment.

Total arrests in connection with the battling were set at 115, police said. Twenty servicemen and 94 civilians—mostly "zoot suiters"—were apprehended. Upward of 500 persons have been taken into custody without formal charges, police estimated.

Band Men Attacked As Zoot Suiters

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Two members of the Gene Krupa band now appearing in Philadelphia were attacked today by sailors who mumbled something about "zoot suits."

Michael Marmarosa, 17 of Pittsburgh, a pianist in the band, was admitted to Hanneman hospital with a possible skull fracture sustained in the attack.

According to Boniface De Franco of Philadelphia, alto saxophonist in the band, the sailors came across the tracks to start the fight, while he and Marmarosa were waiting for a subway train.

The band members were wearing the light blue coats, dark blue trousers and bow ties that make up their uniforms. De Franco said that the outfits bear no resemblance to "zoot suits," although the ties might possibly me objectionable

Zooters Stage Theft At Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN — (UP) — Ohio had its own outbreak of zoot suit hoodlum antics today when two men reported to police they had been robbed by youths clad in the glad plaid.

Strong arm robberies netted the youths in the long coats, wide brim hats and narrow trouser bottoms $71, a watch and a gasoline ration book

Joseph Rogers, one of the victims, said he was grabbed by three zoot suiters and robbed of $61 and a wrist watch on a downtown street. Anthony Quartanta said four reel pleat wearers took $10 and a gas ration book from him.

Axis Tanks Advance Against Guerrillas

LONDON — (AP) — Axis forces supported by 35 tanks and a strong air force have forced their way into the Montenegrin town of Sadnik in the face of fierce resistance by Gen. Draja Mihailovic's guerrilla forces, the Yugoslav government-inexile announced today

The announcement said the patriots killed and wounded many of the enemy.

Heavy fighting was reported continuing after the guerilla forces retired to the surrounding mountains.

In another clash, the Yugoslavs were said to have surrounded and virtually wiped out a German battalion in two days of fighting ending June 1 in the Serbian mountain region of Gucevo, near the Drina river.

his proposal would prohibit payment of subsidies by any federal agency.

OPA thus far has relied entirely on RFC money to finance its subsidy program, the latest part of which became effective today with a 10 per cent reduction in the maximum retail prices of butter ordered. The cost to the government of the butter subsidy program is estimated at $65,000,000 annually.

The OPA has said that meat prices will be rolled back 10 per cent on June 21, and plans now are underway for a similar reduction in coffee prices. It has been estimated that the annual cost of meat subsidies will be from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000, and coffee subsidies $30,000,000.

AUSTRALIA ON OFFENSIVE NOW

Curtin Says Continent No Longer Fears Invasion, Prepares Attack.

In support of his contention that Australia cannot now be invaded, Curtin said

"We have proved that with the resources we have had, together with the command of the sea established by the gallant United States navy through decisive victories at Midway island and in the Solomons."

From this time on, Curtin said, Australia can serve both for "limited and major offensives" against Japan. The conception of Australia as an offensive base, he said, must be patterned to consideration of Australia's war effort "as part of the plan of the United Nations in the Pacific."

From Pearl Harbor until the present, Curtin pointed out, Australia fought a holding war as an obligation imposed upon United Nations forces in the Southwest Pacific by global strategy.

This obligation, he said, has been discharged

"The conclusions of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill for prosecution of the war in the Pacific with the same vigor as the war in Europe," he said, "have ominous portents for the discomfiture of the Japanese."

Of Gen. MacArthur's part in the Allied effort, Curtin said.

"This country can feel very grateful to Gen. MacArthur, who came here at a crucial time and has applied himself in such a distinguished way to ensuring the security of Australia as a base, in order that the cause of the United Nations would not fail."

Gen. MacArthur traveled to Sydney for his talks with the prime minister.

Sets Giant Fire At Jap Airdrome

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS—(INS)—A tremendous explosion, followed by fires visible 75 miles, resulted from an attack by a single Allied bomber on the Japanese airdrome at Nahire, Dutch New Guinea, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

The blast, which shook the bomber despite its 12,000-foot altitude, came as 500-pound bombs were dropped on two large buildings believed to have been munitions storage warehouses. Smoke from the resultant fires rose 8,000 feet.

Only two other sorties, also by lone bombers, were reported in the communique, which said bad weather limited aerial activity. A heavy bomber raided the enemy barracks area at Manokwari, also in Dutch New Guinea, and another bombed Jap-held Unea island in the Bismarck sea.

Attu Defenses Being Installed

WASHINGTON— (INS) —Secretary of War Stimson said today that defensive armament was being rapidly installed on the island of Attu in the Aleutians in preparation for "permanent occupancy" by American forces

CONSTIPATED?

Don't Force! Don't Strain! Thus Risking Hemorrhoids!

Here's one right and proper way to moisten hard dry passages and secure more gentle "easy" movements. 15 minutes before breakfast, drink a glass of hot water to which one teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts has been added. While you are eating breakfast the hot water and Kruschen will be feeding moisture to those hard, dry passages. They become soft, moist, easier to expel. No need to strain and thus risk painful rectal irritation. Usually within 30 minutes wastes are expelled smoothly and gently. You feel gloriously fresh again.

Take only as directed. Try Kruschen for 5 days for you can so regulate the dose as to bring about that "easy" movement such as you have long desired. Don't delay—you can get Kruschen Salts at any drug store. Muir's Cut Rate Drug Store.

Women Voters Propose Shift To City Manager Government

explained that because the league was non-political in character, it could not take steps toward organization of citizens' organization looking toward fostering a new plan of civic government.

It then developed that the chamber could not assume responsibility for the organization for the same reason.

Ray Calene, president, and Paul M. Eliot, a former president of the chamber, explained that their organization also was non-political and could not take the leadership in such a move.

However, chamber representatives told the women that while they were neither voicing support nor disapproval of such a program, interested chamber members would assist the league in its future efforts to bring the charter proposal before the public.

Mrs. Meese said after the motion was tabled that while the league has no immediate plans, it will continue its efforts later in the summer.

Preceding the discussion, the C. of C. report on city finances was reviewed briefly by John G. Routzon, chamber secretary-manager, Mayor W. J. Locke then told the meeting of post-war projects planned by the city, pointing out that projects delayed by war priorities now could be carried on after the war with surplus funds being sufficient to complete them.

ICKES FINES COAL MINERS FOR WALKOUT

Assesses 540,000 Members of UMW $1-a-Day For 5-Day Closing of Mines.

of the coal fields. It is the customary thing."

Ickes made his announcement as the War Labor Board in Washington conducted a public hearing into the deadlocked negotiations between Lewis' union and groups of northern and southern coal operators in the so-called Appalachian conference.

Lewis broke the ranks of the Appalachian group late yesterday when he made a separate agreement with the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers association covering 65,000 miners. Charles O'Neill, leader of the central Pennsylvania group, told the WLB that the agreement provided for $1.30 a day pay increase for the miners in form of compensation for portal to portal pay.

Other operators meanwhile told the board that they would have to have a price increase in coal to meet Lewis' wage demands.

The majority of the members of the Appalachian coal conference, ignoring the split in their ranks which came when central Pennsylvania mine owners made a separate agreement with Lewis, appeared before a public hearing of the WLB to report a deadlock in their negotiations with the UMW. They said that "no agreemen can be reached."

Lewis himself ignored the meeting.

Edward R Burke, head of the southern operators delegation, presented a written document to the board asking for "a supplemental directive" upon the unresolved issues in the prolonged coal controversy which already has resulted in two strikes and cost the country 11,000,000 tons of war vital coal.

While the proceedings were in progress, Lewis reported as usual to the hotel conference room where collective bargaining meetings between the miners and operators have been conducted for the past two weeks. Only two operators were present, just enough to go through the motions of continuing collective bargaining negotiations.

In the lengthy report to the WLB, Burke said that two "very necessary" provisions must be made in advance of final determination of the coal wage dispute.

"Regardless of the extent of the cost increase, a corresponding increase in selling price must be provided," he said. "Also, since no retroactive price increases can be made, the retroactive cost must be taken care of in the future selling price. If this selling price adjustment is not made, the coal industry cannot pay the bill.

"Because of the inability of collecting retroactively from the consumers, it is imperative that any retroactive wage payment be spread out over the same period in which the operator recoups the added cost from the increased selling price of coal."

Burke was the first witness before the board, although Charles O'Neill, head of the central Pennsylvania producers employing 65,000 miners, also was present to report on the agreement which he negotiated separately with Lewis.

Burke attacked the union position on portal-to-portal (underground travel) pay as unreasonable and "entirely unsupported in law." On the portal-to-portal issue, chief stumbling block of the wage negotiations, the union asked a $2-a-day payment, Burke said.

"The mine workers have flatly refused to consider this issue on any reasonable basis," Burke maintained.

Burke also proposed that the increased vacation allowances be confined to miners "employed continuously," and objected to providing tools and equipment for piece workers, since piece work rates "are designed to cover" these costs.

Meanwhile there were reports in Washington that other groups of the mine operators would follow the central Pennsylvania owners in negotiating separate contracts. Lewis apparently was awaiting such a movement instead of submitting his case to the WLB.

The UMW chief confidently predicted that the agreement reached with the Pennsylvania group would be accepted by other members of the Appalachian organization.

"The United Mine Workers union will be glad to offer them the same terms and conditions as quickly as we can meet with them," Lewis said. "We feel that there is a great deal of tonnage that will accept the agreement promptly when aware of its terms."

The WLB public hearing was ordered at the request of the operators. The board signified its intention to "proceed to final disposition of the controversy." The union has threatened a third strike of its 540,000 miners if a new contract covering the coal fields is not signed by June 20.

Charles O'Neill, former spokesman for the northern group and head of the central Pennsylvania Coal Producers association, also was scheduled to report to the board on his agreement with Lewis. O'Neill might reveal details of the settlement.

It was reported that the agreement between Lewis and O'Neill included portal-to-portal payment of $1.50 daily for the time spent by the workers in travelling underground to the face of the mines. Coupled with the 18 to 23 cents a day granted by the WLB in vacation and tool allowances, this figure, if correct, would mean that Lewis nearly realized his $2-a-day demand.

O'Neill and Lewis revealed only one definite factor in the agreement, that it was "contingent upon the necessary approval of prices to permit it to become effective." O'Neill said that he expected the office of price administration to grant a coal price increase sufficient to cover back portal payments to the miners since April 1.

The WLB previously ruled that any wage settlement would be retroactive to April 1, when the old union contract expired.

Asked what would happen if the OPA refused the price boost, Lewis replied.

"That's a hypothetical question. I wouldn't care to go into that."

O'Neill stated that the completed contract would be submitted to the WLB for approval.

Stiff Anti-Strike Bill Gets Approval

WASHINGTON —(AP)— An anti-strike bill so broad it might be used to outlaw walkouts in any war industry emerged today as a congressional challenge to labor controversies that interrupt production on the home front.

Its punitive features polished by a joint conference committee, the measure goes today to a house that often has voted restrictions on organized labor only to see them languish and die in the senate.

Whether it will get quick action there or await a possible settlement of the coal wage dispute, at which it primarily is directed, remained to be seen. Also in doubt is President Roosevelt's attitude toward the measure, which in substance would provide:

Authorization for the president to take over the mines or plants in which a work stoppage has occurred or is threatened, outlawing strikes or lockouts in such cases.

Establishment of the war labor board as a statuatory agency with subpoena powers to settle disputes in all war industries.

Requirement of notice to the secretary of labor, WLB and national labor relations board of a labor dispute, with a provision that no strike be called until 30 days have elapsed and a majority has voted for that action on a secret ballot conducted by the NLRB.

Requirement that the WLB hold its decisions within the confines of the labor relations act, a move sponsors said is designed to prevent the issuance of closed shop or union maintenance orders.

Provisions for a fine up to $5,000 and a year's imprisonment for persons who instigate or conspire with others to bring about strikes in government-operated war industries.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1943.

Most economists agree that we have never produced enough in the United States to provide decent minimum standards of living in our country for all of our people. This in itself will require decades of full employment. —President Eric A. Johnson of U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

After all, it seems easier to explain Adolf Hitler than to account for John L. Lewis.

Enjoy June while you can—and consider your Victory garden activities as recreation instead of work.

Invasion Hints Reveal No Secrets

WHATEVER may be the purpose of present widespread publicity being given to the "imminent invasion" of Europe, it can be taken for granted that no military secrets are being revealed and that the real intent is to mystify rather than enlighten the enemy.

June is the logical month for opening offensives and it is being confidently expected that before this month is over Hitler will order another desperate drive against the Russians—probably the last.

What more natural, after success in North Africa, that the Allies should also choose this month for a powerful assault on "the fortress of Europe," and the extent of aerial bombardment already indulged in serves to strengthen belief that other heavy action is near—although the time, place and form of action will continue as a closely guarded secret until it comes.

While there has been evidence of jitters throughout Nazi-land, no dependance is being placed in an idea that German morale will collapse soon, although Winston Churchill has pointed out that this is characteristic of the Germans when they realize that they are losing. General Montgomery also remarked, at the height of his offensive against Rommel six months ago: "The German is a good soldier and will fight, though I believe it is true that, once you get him down, he cracks up."

The situation is somewhat different with the unwilling Italian fighters, who take the first opportunity to surrender —and it is just possible that present action against Mediterranean islands in the pathway toward Sicily and Italy is more designed to put Italy out of the war than to serve as a direct attack on Germany.

Meanwhile internal difficulties in the United States call loudly for quick settlement, so that this nation can more unitedly turn attention to winning the war—instead of allowing civilian controversies to lengthen hostilities by even a single day.

Example That Merits Emulation

A FORMULA for employe-employer relations which merits more than local attention has been developed in connection with renewal of the contract between the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company and Local 17, United Rubber Workers of America, CIO.

If, as is said by Desmond Walker, president of the local union, this is "the best contract signed in the entire rubber industry," that fact is gratifying not only to those directly concerned but to this entire community, as it reflects capability in management, excellence of product, and realization of the mutuality of interests between employers and employes.

The Mansfield Tire & Rubber company, like many other industries, has, at times in the past, encountered periods of slack business, during which the management exerted great effort to spread employment to as many workers as possible by producing tires in anticipation of future orders.

At such times there was interested and loyal support on the part of employes, whose attitude is reflected in the statement of union officers praising "the fellowship and co-operation existing between company officials and the union."

If the same high standards of union direction and operation could be made universal, and if similar attitude of management could become general throughout the country, solution would quickly be found for problems of employe-employer relations such as have disturbed many cities but which have been fortunately escaped in Mansfield.

Nationalism's Strong Appeal

WRITING on the Russian situation, Anne O'Hare McCormick says in the New York Times: "More important than all is the evidence that Stalin has learned that the appeal of nationalism is stronger than the appeal of internationalism. Experience has taught him the indestructible force of national loyalties, and the terrible test of war has proved beyond doubt the mighty strength of national feeling in his own country."

This might be called a picture of the world in general. International co-operation for peaceful progress is now the ideal of all truly civilized nations. It is felt instinctively that separate development, with unity in broad essentials but with independence and diversity in their own national lives, is best. A world in which all people were trained to do the same things, speak the same language and think the same thoughts would be unbearably monotonous.

Get Acquainted With 'Trillion'

HERETOFORE the word "trillion" has been known only vaguely to most people as being next above "billion" in the mathematical scale. Astronomers use it in measuring colossal distances, but until lately it has been of little concern to anyone else.

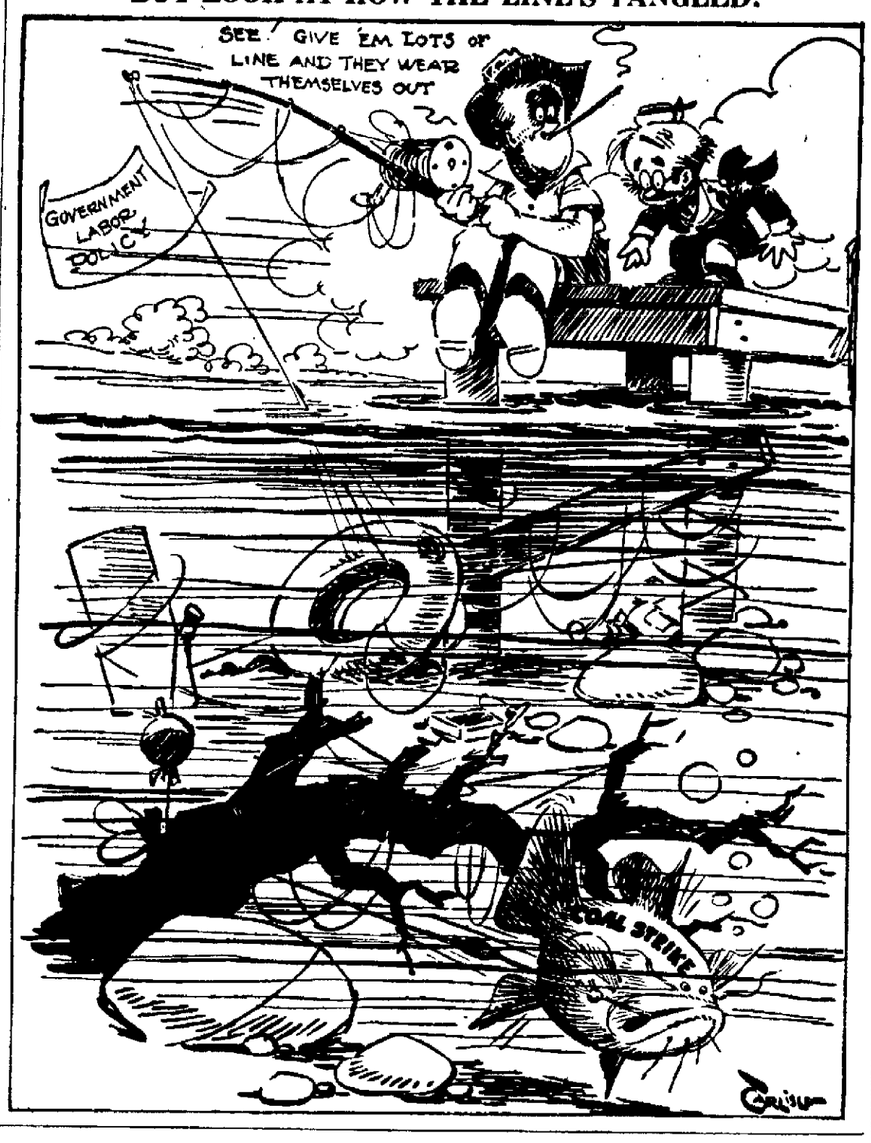
It may mean more hereafter. The house of representatives recently passed unanimously a navy appropriation bill for 29 billion dollars. This, according to Congressman Joseph P. O'Hara of Minnesota, whose figures may or may not check up with the facts, brings the total cost of the war to this country, including lend-lease operations, to "a quarter of a trillion dollars."

Not many years ago no one would have believed such an achievement possible for any nation. Yet even this vast sum is only a start compared with what the United States will spend, if necessary, to preserve its freedom, or what it would cost if this freedom were lost.

A medical authority says airplanes have developed faster than man—but some men were "high-flyers" before there were any planes.

Too bad that some pleasanter name than "alarm clock" wasn't thought of at the beginning—what's alarming about it?

BUT LOOK AT HOW THE LINE'S TANGLED!



Decision Viewed as Radio Curb

By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Virtually unnoticed save by a few radio network officials, the supreme court of the United States has made a decision which, in the opinion of some critics, goes a long way toward censorship of radio programs by a government agency.

In brief the decision holds that the federal communications commission has the power to determine the "composition" of radio traffic.

The paragraph of the decision containing this particular point is as follows:

"The act itself establishes that the commission's (federal communications commission) powers are not limited to the engineering and technical aspects of regulation of radio communication. Yet we are asked to regard the commission as a kind of traffic officer, policing the wave lengths to prevent stations from interfering with each other. But the act does not restrict the commission merely to supervision of the traffic. It puts upon the commission the burden of determining the composition of that traffic. The facilities of radio are not large enough to accommodate all who wish to use them. Methods must be devised for choosing from among the many who apply. And since congress itself could not do this, it committed the task to the commission."

THIS paragraph appears at the top of page 19 of the printed opinion in the case of the National Broadcasting company, et al., vs. United States, et al. It was handed down on May 10. The majority opinion was delivered, and presumably written, by Justice Felix Frankfurter, generally regarded as the idol of the left wingers in the New Deal, and who has probably placed more of his lieutenants, former students and admirers in important government positions than any other man.

Justices Black and Rutledge took no part in the consideration or decision of this case. Justices Murphy and Roberts dissented. So it was a five to two decision.

In the dissenting opinion written by Justice Murphy, and agreed to by Justice Roberts, there is no discussion of this word "composition," regarded by critics as pointing directly at censorship.

These critics point out that if the commission is to grant licenses to radio stations as a result of its approval of the "composition" of that station's radio program, obviously the effect would be to have every station live in fear, and work earnestly to protect its own revenue by doing nothing it was not sure the individual members of the commission would approve.

In the dissenting opinion, Justice Murphy, with the approval of Justice Roberts, says:

"Owing to its physical characteristics radio, unlike the other methods of conveying information, must be regulated and rationed by the government. Otherwise there would be chaos, and radio's usefulness would be largely destroyed. But because of its vast potentialities as a medium of communication, discussion and propaganda, the character and extent of control that should be exercised over it by the government is a matter of deep and vital concern.

"Events in Europe show that the radio may readily be a weapon of authority and misrepresentation, instead of a means of entertainment and enlightenment. It may even be an instrument of oppression. In pointing out these possibilities I do not mean to intimate in the slightest that they are imminent or probable in this country, but they do suggest that the construction of the instant statute should be approached with more than ordinary restraint and caution, to avoid an interpretation that is not clearly justified by the conditions that brought about its enactment, or that would give the commission greater powers than the congress intended to confer."

Workers and Store Hours.

Editor News-Journal:

I have just read the notice of the board of trustees of the Retail Merchants association recommending store hours of their members be not changed at this time, thus co-operating with the national war agencies, whose opinions are that total shopping hours should not be changed at this time.

I, like thousands of other Mansfielders, am employed full time (six days per week) on war work.

Since all downtown stores close at 6 o'clock every evening including Saturday, I find, as others undoubtedly do, that it is an impossibility to get downtown to shop before the stores close.

Other towns around Mansfield, of similar size and population, to accommodate day-shift war workers, are opening at noon one day per week and remaining open until 9 o'clock.

I see no reason why this arrangement could not be applied in Mansfield.

This arrangement would not lengthen the store employes' hours and would certainly help the workers on day shifts in Mansfield war industries.

Poll of 'Lesser Lights' In GOP Shows Willkie Favored for 1944

WASHINGTON—Republican party leaders are very red-faced about the results of a poll conducted on the question—"Who should be the Republican presidential standard-bearer in 1944?"

The winner, so far, has proved to be the man most party chieftains least want as the GOP presidential nominee—Wendell Willkie. Willkie grabbed off all honors, just as he did in the 1940 Republican convention in Philadelphia.

On the other hand, Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, favorite of old-line Republicans, was a poor also-ran.

The poll was taken among GOP county chairmen, Republican members of state legislatures and delegates to the 1940 convention, chiefly in key northern states.

Two questions were asked:

First—Who would make the best available candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1944?

Thirty-six per cent answered: "Willkie." He ran far ahead of other choices, including Governor Tom Dewey of New York, who got the second highest number of votes.

Second question was — Who among the available Republican candidates would make the best president, from the standpoint of ability?

Willkie again led the field with 35 per cent of the votes. Ex-President Herbert Hoover was second in this balloting; Tom Dewey, third, and Governor Bricker, the man generally conceded to have the edge on other candidates, hobbled in fourth.

Churchill's Tip.

ONE significant phase of Winston Churchill's conversations here has just leaked out. He volunteered some valuable advice on the make-up of the U. S. delegation to the peace conference.

Talking to a closed-door session of the senate and house foreign relations committees, he was reminded that if Woodrow Wilson had given more thought to the make-up of the U. S. delegation, his efforts to enroll the United States in a League of Nations might not have been such a failure.

Churchill at first tactfully sidestepped comment, explaining he didn't want to stick his nose in American affairs. However, he finally observed with a grin that he knew a little about politics himself and probably could offer one suggestion.

"What is it?" chorused several of the politicos.

"Appoint a delegation that is strictly bi-partisan," Churchill replied, "half Democrat and half Republican."

If the president named such a commission of outstanding leaders of both parties, the prime minister added, his chances of winning congressional approval of a treaty among the Allied powers would be greatly enhanced.

The idea evoked some smiles, but was generally applauded as a practical suggestion.

Farley and Mrs. Roosevelt.

VERY few people know it, but back in 1940 just after the Democratic convention in Chicago nominated FDR for a 3rd term, Mrs. Roosevelt had a friendly talk with Jim Farley to try to make peace between Jim and her husband. That talk, strange as it may seem, has had some interesting repercussions on an important congressional situation—the Congressman Cox investigation of the Federal Communications Commission.

Mrs. Roosevelt had always thought a great deal of Jim Farley, and he had respect for her. Their talk appeared to make some progress. One of the things Jim requested of Mrs. Roosevelt as a part of the reconciliation plan was that her son, Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., join the law firm of his old friend Eugene L. Garey.

Mrs. Roosevelt, anxious to please Farley, agreed. So young Franklin joined the Garey law firm. This was a real concession, because Garey had represented the big Wall Street enemies of young Franklin's father, and the son of the president in any law firm means real business.

Friend of Viereck's.

FURTHERMORE, Garey's partner, Raoul Desvernine was a Liberty League opponent of the president's and had other interesting connections. He also knew George Sylvester Viereck, at one time convicted as a Nazi agent, and now up for a second trial on June 18.

Viereck was engaged in publishing various anti-British, pro-Nazi books through a publishing house run by Sigfried Hauck, and Hauck later informed the justice department that he had seen one of Desvernine's manuscripts "War Is Bad Business" in Viereck's apartment. Vierack apparently was considering it for publication.

Desvernine, when subsequently queried about this by the justice department, did not deny that one of his speeches had been at Viereck's apartment, but said he knew the Nazi agent only slightly. He said Mrs. Desvernine had met the Vieracks on a boat returning from Europe in 1938, and had been to his house on one or two occasions.

Sacrificed FDR, Jr.

INTO this isolationist, anti-Roosevelt, Wall Street law firm, young Franklin Roosevelt was thrown as a sacrificial lamb—all for the sake of Jim Farley.

But after one month, Jim began knifing the president again and it became apparent that the agreement with Mrs. Roosevelt was off. Whereupon, young Franklin was pulled out of his uncongenial surroundings in the Garey-Desvernine law firm. That made Eugene Garey sore as blazes.

Now, on Jim Farley's recommendations, Garey has been appointed counsel of the congressional committee, conjured up by Congressman Cox of Georgia to investigate the Federal Communications Commission. This appointment came after the Federal Communications Commission recommended criminal prosecution of Cox on a charge of accepting a $2,500 lobbying fee.

At present, bitterly anti-Roosevelt Garey, and bitterly anti-FCC Cox are investigating the agency which had the temerity to move against Cox and which still retains some semblance of Roosevelt liberalism.

Vital Jobs Far Away From the Fighting; Soldiers Impatient to Get Into Action.

(Second of a series on a 13,000-mile flight made before Tunisia fell.)

SOMEWHERE IN AFRICA—As you travel west and then south away from Tunisia, your feeling of leaving the war behind increases in direct proportion to the miles you travel.

In Algeria you still feel the war, for you are surrounded by the flow of supplies and troops and equipment moving toward the front. You feel no danger, but you have that exhilarating surge that comes of great activity around you.

In Morocco the atmosphere is different. There is still great activity there, but it is so far from the front that you feel a definite wall between you and what is going on up there in Tunisia. It's sort of like the warm-up before the big game.

But south of Morocco—well, you seem only to be forever practicing. Our camps throughout the rest of Africa are sort of normal affairs. You have a daily job to do and it's the same every day. Your job is vital, and yet there's nothing to fight. You feel a sense of frustration: you've finally reached the ball park, but you can't see the diamond.

All through Africa I've run onto this same feeling. Morale is perfectly good—and people are doing their jobs and doing them well; but everybody has in the back of his head the burning yearning to get up north where the shootin' is going on.

Down below, some of the permanent bases are almost like country clubs. There is little difference between life there and life at an American post in peacetime. Dozens of times I've heard soldiers, all the way from privates to colonels, express a feeling of shame that they were living so well.

I know how they feel, and I sympathize. Yet they shouldn't feel ashamed. For their jobs are vital. They're doing a work that must be done or else their fellowmen at the front could not survive. Everybody can't be on the firing line.

And as for living well, I certainly see no harm in it if you're equipped to do so, and can do it without taking anything away from anybody else. It seems to me that living miserably just out of sympathy would be a ridiculous affectation.

THIS impatience with a static camp life is just a manifestation of the normal American necessity to bust out and do things.

The other day I was talking with a commander of a camp far in the jungle, a camp we are closing out because it is no longer needed. The camp is near a famous and bad rapids.

"I guess it's a good thing we're leaving here," the commander said. "Take those rapids as an example. People have lived around here for thousands of years, and nobody has ever tried to shoot the rapids.

"But if we stayed another month, sure as hell some soldier would go over those rapids in a barrel. That's just the way we are. Always gotta do something. That's the best thing about us."

AND I know of another case of farawayness from the front getting under some soldiers' skins. This also happened at one of our deep tropical camps.

Four soldiers couldn't stand the peacefulness any longer, so they bought two dugout canoes, stocked up with provisions, hired two native boys to help, and started by river to Cairo—a little matter of 5,000 miles.

The soldiers were gone three days before they were caught. The order for their capture, incidentally, was carried upriver through the jungle by native tom-toms, beating out the message from village to village, on orders of the army.

The boys' commander told me that personally he would have liked to give them medals, but rules are rules, so he had to order them court-martialed for desertion. They were let off with a month apiece, and are now transferred to another camp. They still haven't got to the fighting line, but their ex-commander bets they'll get there eventually.

A Farmer's Diary — By CALVIN A. BYERS

Hill Farmer

FOR ten years I have passed, from time to time, a hilly farm and marveled at its greenness and at the abundant cultivated crops produced. I noticed the farmer's neat effective way of accomplishing heavy, gruelling tasks, and knew that where many a man would find poverty or famine he was growing, by wise foresight and good management, to be in comfortable circumstances.

The other day I stopped to talk with him. "This farm of yours has many steep hills," I said, "but I don't see any gullies."

"No, and I hope you never will! The theory used to be that if you planted your corn and potato rows up and down the hill the water would run down each furrow and not make deep ditches anywhere. But a man has to use his own commonsense. My way is not to let a ditch start.

"I find you don't need an engineer to mark out your fields, if you use your own gumption. I've worked this land so much, and it's fed the family for so long, that I just couldn't see it wasted. I'm raisin' better crops now than I did 10 years ago. My own records prove it.

Clover, beans and manure'll do wonders for any farm. I find if I plow thick green stuff under it'll hold the moisture better.

"I've widened the rear wheels on my tractor so's I can plow 'any slope on my farm with safety. A piece o' good hill land will make a good farmer out o' any man who'll use gumption and stick to it. Farms like this one take a good measure of a lifetime to get yielding well . . . but I don't like to live nowhere else. I'll stay here for the duration, anyway.—my son works in a defense plant in the city—and do the best I can. Yes, I'm a grandfather, twice—but I can ride a tractor yet."

We stood upon the stoop and looked down on a deep, luxuriant clover field, just coming into bloom. The slope beyond the creek was a dark soft green, with a dozen cattle grazing.

Along the highway that divides this farm many people pass. How open all his work is to the public, and what an amazing influence he must have to those who realize that his fields are a living sermon; such men will always leave the land they use a richer heritage, and the world is a finer place that they are here.

Dave Boone Says:

THE armed forces are in action everywhere, including the zoot suit fronts. Well, I'm all for a war on those costumes, but I don't like to see the zoot suit sharing the battle news with Pantelleria, etc.

* * *

There's no denying the zoot suit craze has been carried too far, however, and maybe the way our soldiers and sailors opened an attack on it out west will help suppress it.

That was a great speech by Winston Churchill declaring an invasion about to begin, but it seems strange to see it advertised that way. I suppose it's so hard to keep anything secret these days that nobody tries it even in war.

* * *

I always thought big war plans were kept a little quiet, but nothing is like it used to be. The strain on an enemy's nerves counts a lot, so I wouldn't be surprised to see attacks preceded by big advertising campaigns from now on.

* * *

Things may even reach a point where the enemy, hit where he don't expect it some day, will file a protect on the ground he wasn't notified.

AN APPLE FOR EVE--

By Kathleen Norris
(Copyright, 1943)

CHAPTER XXXI

Hugh came back for lunch, and the conversation about Larry's aviation training camp in the east, Hugh's hospital camp at Indian Hill, their speculations as to other camps, military movements, naval action, armament production, and air defense reduced Loveday to the position of listener. She served a good meal; the children were by this time asleep, and a fire in the little-used dining room grate made the general effect of hospitality and coziness accentuated by the wild winds outside.

"You're going to stay in this neighborhood, Hugh?" Larry asked.

"I don't see why not."

"Well, I hope you do. In case of any emergency or illness here, I'd like to feel that Loveday had you to turn to."

"Oh, I look 'em over every few days," Hugh said with his pleasant smile. "Even if I can't get home every night!"

"Before winter I wish we could get that furnace straightened out," Larry went on. "We fired it up a couple of times last spring, but there's something wrong. Has anything been done about partitioning off an apartment upstairs?" Loveday was talking about that last summer.

This gave Hugh a chance to embark upon the subject of the lost Gurney fortune; he expatiated upon clues, leads, suspicions, hopes. If they found the money they would have the whole house done over and start the hospital as well. Loveday could see that Larry put small faith in their ever ending that particular quest.

"What I was thinking," he said, "was that if you put a mortgage of—say two thousand—on the place and rented the apartment for—what could you get, d'you suppose?"

"Two thousand!" Loveday protested. "Two hundred is more like it."

Neither man paid her any attention beyond an absent-minded glance.

"You could get a good rent, Larry," Hugh said, "because there's not half enough housing in Indian Hill for the families of the men who are pouring in here. Captain Fayre's wife pays eighty-five for a miserable little place."

They fell to figuring. Once Larry asked Loveday where she planned to put the bath in the new apartment. "I'm like a secretary," she thought, answering briefly.

"You see, Hugh," Larry said finally, "in two years it would be paid for. Then with her rent and what she could raise on the place, and you right here to keep an eye on things, she'd be fixed."

"But, Larry," Hugh said, "there is always the chance of our having much more!"

"Yes, all right, go ahead and find it!" he conceded good-naturedly. "Well," he went on, "there's the furnace then that ought to be fixed. And get an estimate on his apartment business; this is the time to do it. And another thing — Mr. St. George is still sending you fifty or seventy-five or whatever it is every month, isn't he, Loveday?"

"From the estate," Loveday said.

"From the estate!" Larry repeated in the tone of male superiority that she hated. "All right. But of course that stops," he said to Hugh, "if anything happens to the old man. That's just his generosity."

"You don't know that!" Loveday said.

Again Larry paid no attention to her; he looked at her brother. "I thought, if we found my grandfather's money, Loveday could very well tell him that she did not need it any more," Hugh said. Loveday's face turned red. "Uncle Warren," Hugh went on, "isn't young any more, and I imagine he'd like to retire one of these days."

"Well, keep the home fires burning," Larry said when the time came for him to go and Hugh had offered to drive him to the airport. "Oh, and by the way, Loveday—"

They were on the outer steps below the front door. Hugh had gone down with the children to the car. The wind was still whirling leaves about madly; the air was wild and sweet and soft.

"As far as Chris goes," he said, "he's the sort, I imagine, who's always hanging around other men's wives. I don't know, of course; you know him better than I do. But I don't worry about you; women like you can fool around a lot and get letters and wish they had the nerve to get away with things, but they're too scared to get very far. You're a good starter, but you don't want to get in too deep any more than he does.

"Now, about divorce," he added in a businesslike tone. "I talked to my mother—"

"You talked to your mother!"

"Yep. Why not?"

"Well, because—because what business is it of hers?"

"The kids are her business."

"The children are my business!"

"Not if you're leaving them to marry someone else."

"Larry, you said when you were first here—you said yourself," Loveday began breathlessly, "that you couldn't take them, that they belonged to me! Children those ages always go with the mother."

"Not always they don't! Things are different now, anyway. I'm getting paid; I'm in a job I can stay in, war or no war. Yep, I talked to Mom, and I think she talked to Marge. My father's not going to live very long; he's washed up, and Mother'll be awfully lonely. She'll have something, a couple of rents, and I'll be able to help out, and she wants the kids."

"Well, I like your mother, and she's always been nice to me," Loveday began with tight lips, "but if she or anyone thinks for one minute I'd let them go—but it's ridiculous!"

Larry's tone was not argumentative.

"Mom would want them most of the time, school time," he said. "They're so little now it doesn't matter. But afterward it's bad to keep jumping them in and out of schools."

"That's a silly way to talk," she said coldly. But she was shaking.

"Well, silly or not, that's the situation. You work it out. And Hugh'll get some figures on partitioning the house and making that apartment and see that they overhaul the furnace. That may cost you four or five hundred, but whatever it is a mortgage would cover that too. It isn't," Larry concluded in a kinder tone than he had been using, as they both went down the steps, "it isn't that I don't trust you. I know what you're made of. But I wouldn't trust Chris St. George as far as you could throw him with one hand.

He kissed the children, waved a hand to her.

"Behave yourself now and don't give your mother any trouble!" he called back from the front seat as he and Hugh drove away.

Her mind and senses a jumble of fear and anger and amazement, Loveday went automatically back into the house and took the children up to her mother's old room, now their playroom.

"Please dress my doll for me!" Betsey pleaded. Loveday looked thoughtfully at the tiny slippers and bath wrapper; she tied the fine cord neatly. Martha came up injured and jealous with her own bath doll. Owen seized the opportunity to toss all the furniture out of the doll's house. The three children trailed with their mother through the five connected rooms on the other side of the hall. The rooms were cool and close; the damp air smelled of matting and draperies; Loveday tried to concentrate her thoughts upon the subject of the new apartment.

"This would be their sitting room and this the kitchen," she said half aloud. "As if anyone," Loveday added, "could possibly get my children from me!"

Suddenly, desperately, she needed Chris.

Larry had humiliated and threatened her; he had given her a bad fright. Even now her heart was beating uncomfortably fast, but she was beginning to conquer the moment of fear. After all, she had more resource and initiative and imagination than Larry and Larry's whole family! It was not for Larry and Hugh to talk over her head of matters that concerned only herself; She could say to a judge—"Ensign Ingersoll deserted me, your honor, left me to care for these children single-handed. He did not have regular work for months at a time. He went away without telling me where he was going. The children have never been with anyone but me."

But of course it would not come to that! Little children always went with their mother. Someday perhaps the twins and Owen could visit their father's mother.

Now if only Chris wasn't angry! In the cool stormy dusk Loveday heard the telephone ring sharply and ran downstairs with her heart beating fast with apprehension.

It was a telegram. She asked the man to repeat it. It seemed too good to be true that Chris had been as hungry to see her as she had been to see him.

"May I come over on Sunday?" it read. "Must settle everything now. Much love." Signed "Chris."

PICNIC TO HONOR SCOUT LEADER

Mansfield Girl Scouts and their leaders were busy today planning a farewell picnic for Miss Eleanor Bond, executive secretary, who is leaving in July to join the WAVES.

The picnic will be held June 23 at 1 p. m. at South Park. All troop members and leaders are invited and each is to bring her own "nosebag" lunch. Following the picnic there will be troop demonstrations of scout activities this year.

Tonight at 6:30 Troop 9 headed by Mrs. F. H. McDowell and Mrs. Joy Herbert will hold a Mother-Daughter banquet at St. Luke's Lutheran church. Scouts will give demonstrations and will present a play, a product of their dramatics training.

Keep Perspiring Feet Dry and Sweet

Excessive perspiration often makes your feet uncomfortable—socks or stockings damp, as well as causing disagreeable foot odors. Try dusting your feet and shoes with Allen's Foot-Ease. Easy—quick—convenient. It acts to absorb excess perspiration and prevent odors. If you are breaking in a new pair of shoes or if you are wearing an ill-fitting tight pair, there's nothing like Allen's Foot-Ease to relieve the friction that makes feet feel so uncomfortable. For real foot comfort, be sure to ask for Allen's Foot-Ease today! At all druggists.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Mansfield Chapter No. 47 Holds Regular Meeting for Election and Mooseheart Chapter Night Program; Initiate Candidates.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE, Mansfield chapter 47, held its regular Mooseheart chapter night program and election of officers for the ensuing year at the Moose home Wednesday night with Mrs. George J. Hehner, chairman, and her committee in charge. Mrs. Lester Perry, senior regent, was in charge of formal initiation of six candidates.

Officers who were elected were Mrs. John Stentz, senior regent; Mrs. Harry H. Donley, junior regent; Miss Anita Payne, chaplain; Mrs. Clarence Rist, treasurer, and Mrs. Howard Hannon, recorder. Mrs. Stentz will appoint chairmen of committees and they will be announced at a later date. Tellers at the election were Mrs. F. L. Daugherty, Mrs. Fred Roth and Miss Mildred Burdett.

For identification, candidates wore a miniature American flag in observance of Flag day. They were initiated in honor of Miss Ruth Roesch, junior graduate regent and associate dean of academy of friendship, who was a guest speaker at the meeting. Her topic was "Mooseheart."

Candidates who were initiated were Mrs. Ralph Jesson, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. George Wise, Mrs. Gertrude Krause, Miss Pearl Johnson and Miss Rita Cline.

The program consisted of duo-accordion selections by Doris and Joe Loch. They played "Evening Shadows" and "Dancing Dolls. "The American Prayer" and "Johnny Doughboy" were sung by Mrs. Katherine Stahl, accompanied by Miss Ilene Leibhart. Mrs. Stahl and Miss Leibhart sang "When the Lights Go On Again All Over the World" as a duet.

Mrs. Lehner received a corsage of roses, and a gift from the committee, which was presented by Mrs. William Beer. Miss Roesch, Mrs. Howard Hannon, Mrs. Perry and all participating in the program received gifts presented by Mrs Lehner, after which the Mooseheart committee was introduced and a war bond was presented to the chapter.

Mrs. Hannon read the report of the committee and told of the work done during the past year.

A special meeting for the balloting of new candidates will be held June 16 at 7.30 p m The next regular meeting will be held June 23 at 7:30 p m, for the sponsors night program under the membership committee, and will be held at the Moose home. At that time, new officers will be installed.

During the business meeting, a letter from Mrs. Nannie Lowman, who has been confined to the hospital, was read.

Fete Mothers At Banquet In Colonial Rooms

A prominent social event for the Zeta chapter of the Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority was given Wednesday night as a Mother-Daughter banquet at the Colonial rooms on Park avenue west.

Following introductions, and a short time spent socially, dinner was served at 7 p. m., from a U-shaped table centered with low bowls of beautiful white, pink and red peonies. Place cards were white with the sorority crest on them. In the center of the U, was a small table upon which were models of a young woman and a small girl, representing the mother-daughter theme. They were surrounded by an arrangement of peonies.

As individual favors, each mother was presented a red rose tied with silver ribbon, the sorority flower and color and a lovely handkerchief.

After the dinner, Miss Ethel Mae Bogan, toastmistress, gave a toast to the mothers, followed by the daughters singing the song "My Mom." The girls entertained their mothers by presenting a one act melodrama. Games were played and small novelty prizes were awarded to winners.

The group singing of sorority songs was led by Miss Maxene Wilson, and concluded the evening's entertainment. The remainder of the evening was spent socially.

The committee in charge of the event included Miss Ruth Mengert, chairman, Miss Judy Kelly, and Miss Patricia Oberlander.

Alpha Class Has Dinner at Home Of Mrs. Schrack

Nine members of the Alpha class of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church and two guests, Mrs. George Hoover and Mrs. Ada Ackerman were entertained Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. A. Schrack with a covered-dish dinner.

Dinner was served at a long table centered with garden flowers. Lovely arrangements of flowers were also placed around the room. Following the dinner, the business session was conducted by the president. Group singing was enjoyed. Mrs. J H Mollenkop conducted the devotions.

During the social hour the secret pals were revealed and gifts exchanged The July 8 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Rose Dewitt, Helen avenue.

HAVE PICNIC.

The Boosters class of the Central Methodist church will have a picnic Friday at 6:30 p m. at North Lake park. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whaley are chairmen of the picnic.

Wartime Homes Theme of Talk By Isabel Barry

Miss Isabel Barry of Cleveland, a specialist in interior decorating, was a guest speaker at the Pilgrim guild's final meeting of the season. Miss Barry spoke on "Your Home in Wartime" at the First Congregational parish house.

In her talk Miss Barry emphasized the value of color and the importance of the atmosphere of the home during wartime. She illustrated her talk with colored slides.

During the business meeting at which Miss Mary Proctor presided, officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. Robert Dirlam was named as the new president. She will succeed Miss Proctor. Succeeding Mrs. Peter Young as vice president will be Mrs. Ralph Emerson. Other officers who were elected were Mrs. C. R Deisler as secretary and Mrs. R. D. Lindsay as treasurer. The executive committee will consist of Mrs. H. B. Soulen, Mrs. Paul Weir and Mrs. Scott Coffin.

Hostesses at the 1 o'clock luncheon meeting were Mrs. Coffin, Mrs. Soulen, Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. F. J. Schuster, Miss Proctor, Mrs. Frank Hartman, Mrs. Weir, Mrs. T. J. Patton, Mrs. R. D. Campbell, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Vernon Lawrence, Mrs. Charles Wilson, and Mrs. Rufus Tracey.

When luncheon was served buffet style, guests were seated at small tables which were centered with vases of spring flowers. Bouquets of peonies in various colors decorated the house.

The next regular meeting of the guild will be held in October. Details of that meeting will be announced at a later date.

One Agency Is Proved to Be Human

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The Office of Defense Transportation appears to be human after all. This has been questioned more than once when they clamped down on week-ends, vacations, and frowned on the foot-loose, fancy-free traveling of civilians.

But they have reinstated themselves in the good graces of lovers by smiling sweetly on honeymoon travel. "All the world loves a lover" seems true even of a government agency.

The problem of the honeymoon in war time has added an extra wrinkle to the brow of Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation. He came through finally with the decision that while unneccessary civilian travel must be curtailed, there are reasons, important ones, behind the rice and old-shoe throwing that start the newlyweds off on their sentimental journey.

Honeymoon trips this year must be short ones, not likely to take more time from army posts or even the civilian desk or the defense job than a few days, but the O. D. T. has declared "We're inclined to be lenient on honeymoon travel for both civilians and service men."

It's probable Uncle Sam has had his shoulder nudged by someone urging sternly practical reasons for the granting of honeymoon leave. Manufacturers have whispered no hope-chest linens, no trousseaux, no wedding cakes baked, etc., etc.

And that's not all either—the WPB has just been obliged to relax restrictions and permit the manufacture of more than 300,000 single and twin baby carriages. Production for the coming year is now geared for the delivery of 900,000 baby carriages, plus 163,000 baby walkers.

There was a time, and not so long ago, when we Americans wholly disregarded love's young dream, honeymoons, light housekeeping, and after a pause, baby carriages as a means to an end of carrying on this nation.

With our pioneer families which frequently numbered a dozen around the board, we weren't given to counting noses when it came to considering future citizens. But World war No. 1 taught us the importance of that, so the Office of Defense Transportation, the War Production board, and other government agencies are seeing to the essentials.

Gives Recipe For Molded Jelly Salad

By BETSY NEWMAN

A molded salad always looks like a dessert, whether it is or not. Made with vegetables it is a toothsome accompaniment to hot or cold meat. The recipe I'm giving you today really is a party salad, but the family deserves party dishes these days, especially when they can get them economically. Notice that the cottage cheese for the pie is unrationed.

Today's Menu.

Breaded Veal Steak
Boiled New Potatoes
Asparagus or Green Peas
Jellied Salad Mold
Cheese Cake Pie
Coffee

Jellied Salad Mold.

1½ Tbsps. granulated gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2½ cups tomato juice or puree
2 bay leaves
5 whole cloves
¼ cup chopped onion
½ tsp. salt
Dash pepper
Few drops Tabasco sauce
2 calavo avocados
½ cup diced celery
Lettuce hearts

Moisten gelatin in cold water. Combine tomato juice, bay leaves, cloves, onion, salt, pepper and Tabasco sauce; bring to a boil and continue boiling 5 minutes, strain. Add moistened gelatin and stir until dissolved; cool. Dice one calavo avocado. When gelatin begin to set, stir in diced calavo and celery and mold into ring mold. To serve, fill center of unmolded ring with lettuce hearts and one sliced calavo avocado. Serve with desired dressing. If individual molds are used, surround with small slices of avocado. Serves 6.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

There was no use keeping the truth from Olina and her parents any longer and while Philip Veritzen still held in his fingers the forged note purporting to come from Georges which Olina had received and brought to me, I poured forth my story of what my father wished the exiled young princess to do on the morrow.

Olga's face whitened as I talked and Philip Veritzen's heavy eyebrows contracted in a frown. But Olina's eyes sparkled in excitement as I told how my father wished her to go to the bank, withdraw the money, and take it to the hotel corridor where she would deliver it to the unknown woman as instructed. Then I told them of my question to my father concerning danger to Olina, and just what he had said in answer.

"He wishes all three of you to know of this possibility—but not probability—of danger before you decide what shall be done."

"I should think so," Philip Veritzen broke out resentfully, but I saw Olga's hand lift in a tender, protesting gesture, and he fell silent.

Olina Makes a Decision.

"Olina must make her own decision," her mother said. "I no longer can say what she must or must not do."

I saw a startled gleam of joy—and of pride—in Olina's eyes, and knew that for the first time, Olga had recognized her daughter as an equal, as another woman, instead of a child who must be controlled. I knew, of course, that there would be little backslidings—no mother ever can always remember to keep aloof from the affairs of her child—but the decisive break had been made, and I knew that both mother and daughter eventually would be happier for the change.

"But you will approve, Maman," Olina said appealingly, "and you too, Papa Veritzen, I am sure, when I tell you that I must go. You see in this particular instance, I am the one on whom your father must depend to trap these people—isn't that so, Auntie Madge?"

"That is correct," I told her gravely, knowing how her high spirit was thrilling to this adventure, so foreign to the sheltered orbit in which her life had revolved.

"And you are going to be there, too," Olina went on, "and will face whatever peril I do. I would be ashamed to stay behind. Can't you see that, Maman and Papa Veritzen?"

"Yes, I see that you must go," Olga said, and then she looked at her husband compellingly.

"Yes, yes, she must go, of course," he said, and I rose abruptly, and hurried to the door.

"I shall take that message back to my father at once," I said. "But, please remember, all of you, that my father considers the danger negligible, instead of certain."

"I shall be very glad to remember that," Olga said fervently, but Olina's starry eyes told me that she welcomed whatever danger was in the offing.

Philip Veritzen was at the door as soon as I.

Veritzen Joins Madge.

"If you don't mind," he said, "I'll just walk over and see your father a minute. If you will please excuse me Dearest." He turned to his wife, and included Olina in his formal little bow.

"Of course," Olga said, smiling at him, and Olina echoed her mother's words.

Once the door had closed, Philip Veritzen slipped his hand beneath my elbow, and impelled me rapidly along the corridor to the elevator.

"Of course there's more to this than you have told my wife and daughter, but equally of course we can't talk in this public corridor."

I pulled him to a standstill by exerting all my strength.

"One thing I must tell you," I said in muted tones. "Noel is in my apartment, helping my father simply by being there. But he knows nothing of this letter to Olina, or our discovery concerning it, and it is highly undesirable that he learn anything concerning it. So please be careful what you say until you see my father alone, or at least, without Noel present."

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, June 11.

An exceptionally active and eventful day in which all the affairs, both business and personal may be pushed on to desired objectives, not only by astute and clever manipulation but by sheer force and determination as well as hard work. There may be some obstruction or delay to dispose of before real benefits materialize. The social or romantic elements are strong and should be cultivated to effect cherished objectives or ambitions. There may be very pleasant and active social or sentimental celebrations.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusual activity and movement in all the relations both business and private. All pertaining to business, travel, agencies, writings, art and finances may be keyed to high gear, and should attain successful results both by shrewdness and sagacity as well as strudy and faithful labor and determination. The element of friendship or social prestige may be utilized with success. In romantic or love interest there should be convivial festivity or celebration.

child born on this day should have exceptional talents and versatility backed up by industry and sound sense, as well as worthy ambitions.

Noel's father looked at me with eyes which showed the knowledge I had seen in them a few minutes before.

"Your words have only confirmed my conjecture," he said. "I know who is responsible for this."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

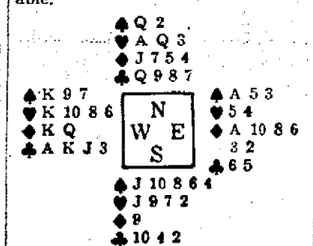
"The Authority on Authorities"

LOW RATE INSURANCE

One trick is not much of an insurance premium to pay for a policy which protects you against failure to make your game contract, in either rubber bridge or total point duplicate. If giving up the single trick voluntarily makes success of your contract a sure thing, you are spending a possible 50 or 100 points, depending on vulnerability, to protect something worth around 400 points when you are not vulnerable and around 600 when you are vulnerable.



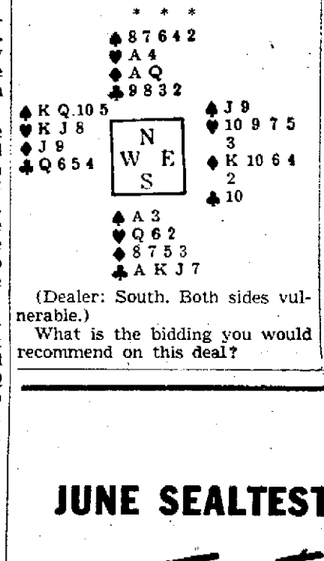
(Dealer. East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

Afraid of the three bid suits, North opened the spade Q at both tables of the team match in which this hand was dealt. One declarer, who likes to be known as a quick thinker, saw that he could readily take ten tricks—or, at least, so he thought. There would be six diamond tricks and two each in the black suits. So planning, he used his spade K on the first trick, took in the diamond K and then the Q. When South failed to follow suit, he was shocked. Going to dummy with the spade A and playing the diamond A would not enable him to run the long suit.

In his extremity, he scored the club A, the spade A, the diamond A and finessed the club J, which lost. North took his diamond J and led the club 9 back to the K. West put him back in with the Club 8, whereupon he scored the heart A returned the heart Q to the K, and the heart 10 lost the setting trick to the J.

The other declarer made a simple safety play. Winning the first trick with the spade K, he scored the diamond K, overtook the Q with the A and led the 10 to North's J. No mater what North returned, five diamond tricks and the contract were safe. The spade 2 came back to the A, the diamonds were run, North discarding a club and a heart, then the club A and K followed by the J to the Q. North now could score only his heart A and had to lead his Q to the K, giving West an extra trick as a reward for soundness.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Underground Says Hitler No Longer Master of Europe

LEADERS SAY TERROR FAILS TO CURB WILL

Conquered Peoples Ready To Strike at Nazis Despite Million Executions.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Eight men in London who link the anti-Axis continental underground with the Allied exile governments expressed belief today that Hitler is no longer master of Europe.

Two years of execution, enslavement, torture and terrorism have failed to break Europe's will to resist, these men agreed, and as Allied invasion threats mount this summer the silent threat of guerrilla attack from the Nazi rear increased steadily.

The eight underground representatives, some of whom recently came from occupied territory, summed up the ledger of Axis occupation as follows:

Axis achievements—7,000,000 persons enslaved. Almost 1,000,000 persons executed or murdered. Tens of thousands in concentration camps.

Underground achievements—at least 150,000 Axis troops killed fighting guerrillas in Jugoslavia, Greece, Poland and France or destroyed with knives and pistols in Norway, Holland, Belgium and Czechoslovakia. At least 240 quisling officials assassinated. Sabotage that slowed up Axis war production as much as 30 per cent in some areas and pinned down perhaps 1,000,000 Axis troops needed on the Russian front.

The survey of current underground resistance made it clear that opposition to the Axis was much stronger in some occupied areas than in others, but that viewing Europe as a whole nothing the Nazis have done has been able to destroy the will to resist in the people.

The underground estimates that they can count more or less definitely on about 12,000,000 men who will be ready to strike in some way to aid an Allied invasion.

Many thousands of unsung heroes and heroines in the underground are working constantly, aiding in the escape of Allied prisoners, carrying out sabotage and publishing and distributing clandestine newspapers throughout Europe to keep alive the faith of the ordinary people. The Belgium underground newspaper La Libre Belgique has a circulation of around 400,000.

BOARD VIEWS COUNTY ROAD

Richland county commissioners today viewed the Wigton road Mifflin township, where recent rains caused the collapse of a bridge abutment.

Tentative improvement plans call for a new road, instead of repairing the bridge. Final hearing will be held at the commissioners' office, June 17, at 10 a. m.

After viewing the City View drive in Lincoln Heights yesterday, commissioners will hold final hearing June 16 at their office at 10 a. m. Petition had been for vacation of part of the road.

RITES FRIDAY

Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 p. m. Friday for Billy Ray Groves six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Groves of Chanute, Kan.

The body was removed to the home of the child's grandparents Mr. and Mrs. John Filer, 59 South Foster street to remain until removed to the Finefrock funeral home for the services Friday.

HUNT KIDNAPERS

Police Follow Meager Clues In Girl's Disappearance.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Police of the Kensington district hunted with meager clues today for two negroes who, a 14-year-old boy reported, kidnaped a blond girl as she walked along a far south side street with him last night.

Rocco Camadeca, who told the police the men dragged the girl into an old automobile and sped away, said he did not know the girl's name but she evidently was an acquaintance of his brother, Tommy, 18, who was to join the army today.

The girl was about 16 years old.

Detectives questioned Rocco's brother, who gave them names of several girls who might fit the description given by the younger boy, but all were found safe at home. Residents of the neighborhood near the scene recalled hearing a girl scream.

CALL A TRUCE IN SLACK WAR

Girls Abandon Dresses Pending Settlement.

DETROIT (AP)—Office girls at Ford motor company's Highland park plant reported for work today dressed in slacks, a truce having been reached in the slacks-or-dresses controversy.

The girls staging a revolt against a company rule that all women employes whose work takes them near machinery at any time must wear slacks, reported for work three days in succession attired in dresses. They sat idle at their typewriters because company officials refused to give them any work unless they went home or put on slacks.

The girls agreed to re-don their slacks until their grievance is appealed to a board of Ford and union officials.

HEARING SET

Grandson of President Cited In Slaying of Playmate.

MEDIA, Pa. (AP)—William Donner Roosevelt, 10-year-old grandson of the president, will be given a hearing tomorrow in the fatal shooting of his playmate A. Lewis Hutchinson, jr., last Sunday at Newtown Square.

The Hutchinson boy, son of an investment broker, was killed when struck by a rifle bullet while visiting at the home of Roosevelt's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt Winsor, former wife of Colonel Elliott Roosevelt.

150 YOUNGSTERS ENROLLED IN LIBRARY SUMMER READING PLAN

With more than 150 youngsters already enrolled the Mansfield library summer reading program neared the end of its first week today.

Miss Myra Lorimer, children's librarian, reported that 75 had enrolled at the public library including 46 in the older group and 29 of the younger readers. She said three reports with which the older readers win stamps for their albums which lead to certificates at the end of the summer had been given. Five of the younger group have already reported on books which they have read.

At the Newman branch library where a similar program is being carried on 90 young readers have enrolled for summer reading. Mrs. Lois Pennell, head of the branch library, said today that 50 were in the older group and 40 in the younger group. Carlton Perrine has earned the most stamps in the older reading club and Martha Hines in the younger club.

Essentially the same in the program for the children from the fourth grade up, the Newman library reading program differs from that of the public library in the plan for the through third graders. Mrs. Pennell has made a poster showing a picture of Mother Goose. As each of the youngsters reads a book he earns a feather for Mother Goose.

CITES NEED FOR U. S.-BRITISH ACCORD BEFORE AND AFTER WAR

By WALLY DAVIS

The United States and Great Britain must work together with a mutual agreement both before and after the war to obtain a speedy victory and a better post-war world.

That was the message of E. J. Bisiker, British consul in Cleveland, who addressed a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs today at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

"American lend-lease was extremely important to Great Britain," Bisiker said. "The British empire's supply of war materials was nearly gone when we received help from the United States."

The speaker said that the lend-lease program has been the subject of much criticism in America. "This criticism" he said, "is without foundation. We are actually lending more of equipment than we are keeping for our own army."

He branded as false a story, undoubtedly started by the Axis propaganda machines, that the United States was lending its money and supplies while the Dominion of Canada was demanding spot cash. Canada has already loaned the empire $1,000,000,000 for war materials, he said.

The speaker touched lightly on Great Britain's India situation.

"We have agreed to give India her complete freedom when we think she is ready to establish a sound government. It took America four years to frame a constitution. It has taken us seven years to draw up the bill of rights to give India free government. There are many confliction in this situation that do not appear on the surface."

Bisiker further emphasized the importance of lend-lease as he referred to the war in Africa.

"The United Nations fought and defeated the Axis powers in Africa with joint resources," he said. "The ground forces were 60 per cent American, the balance, mainly, British."

The speaker urged a quick European invasion declaring "the longer we delay this invasion, the more difficult it will be to rebuild Europe after the war. The people of the enslaved countries are being told lies about the allied forces. If we delay our invasion long, their minds may be poisoned against us."

He quoted President Roosevelt's statement that "the cost of war can not be measured in money or materials but in blood and lives."

Bisiker was introduced to the 120 club members by Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler.

TWO HEARINGS MEET DELAY

Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler yesterday continued indefinitely hearing of two $750 damage suits brought against the city of Mansfield by Alex and Esther Adelman, husband and wife. Most of the evidence in the cases was heard yesterday afternoon.

The plaintiffs seek damages for injuries they suffered last Jan. 17 when their car allegedly struck a trench at a repair job on Orange street. Adelman contended his car was damaged and he and his wife received cuts and bruises in the mishap. They are represented by Attys. H. M. Rust and Frank Culp.

SCHOOL BOARD EMPLOYS COACH FOR APPLESEED

N. W. Henline, Bellville, O.S.U. Grad, Hired; Other Staff Vacancies Filled.

Norman W. Henline of Bellville was employed as coach at Johnny Appleseed junior high school late yesterday by the Mansfield board of education which hired four other teachers and approved a list of new textbooks at a special meeting.

Henline, a graduate of Ohio State university in 1929, has taught eight years and was an instructor in the Oak Harbor high school last year. He succeeds Guy VanNostrand who resigned as coach at Johnny Appleseed.

The board employed Charles H. Vanderbilt of Lexington and Ensil D. McNabb of Nashville, O., to teach in junior high school, while Miss Virginia M. Herriff of Bellevue was hired as an elementary instructor and Mrs. Ruth T. Summerville of Indianapolis, Ind., as teacher in the special school for the deaf. Vanderbilt taught Madison high school last year.

Thirty-two new textbooks, including 20 for Senior high school classes, were adopted by the board after 19 books were ruled out for use in the schools.

The new textbooks were approved on the recommendation of the school textbook committees and Supt. W. L. Miller. The school board provides books for pupils. The next books cover a variety of subjects, including spelling, English, mathematics, history, home economics, social problems, physics, bookkeeping, foreign languages, and vocation grammer and composition.

The board authorized Supt. Miller to attend a conference for school administrators at the University of Chicago for a week in mid-July, granting expense money up to $50.

Only three of the five members of the board attended the special session yesterday and Harold A. Bruce as vice president was in charge of the meeting in the absence of Harold W. Arlin, board president. Also absent was A. H. Fankhouser.

CLUB FETES BLIND GUESTS

Lions Stage Annual Dinner for Sightless at Hotel.

Lions club members staged their annual dinner party for the sightless persons of Mansfield last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Fifteen blind guests were present and entertained the 60 members and their wives with songs and readings. Accordion selections were also a part of the program planned by Adjt. Paul Hoffman.

DISCUSS BIBLE SCHOOL PLANS

60 Teachers To Meet Tonight For Final Instructions on Vacation Program.

Plans for the community vacation church school will be discussed today at 7:30 p. m. when 60 teachers of the school meet at First Presbyterian church.

The teachers will receive final instructions for the operation of the six schools, which will begin Monday and continue through June 25.

At tonight's meeting, Mrs. Albert L. Linder, chairman of the school committee, will lead a discussion on administrative problems. Miss Ruth Matfet will speak on the variety of activities possible for junior and primary children and will show examples of handcraft.

Mrs. Charles Ray will talk on the subject of "Worship," demonstrating how it may be used in the various school departments. Miss Delia Evans will conclude the meeting with a service of worship and consecration.

Twenty-one Mansfield churches are cooperating in the bible school. Classes will meet five days a week, Monday through Friday. Classes will begin at 9 a. m. and continue until 11:30 a. m.

The following will supervise the schools: Rev. Glenn F. Lewis, Park Avenue Baptist church; Mrs. Ralph Peat, Mayflower Congregational church; Mrs. O. E. Chronister, First United Brethren church; Mrs. P. T. Hoffman, Salvation Army; Mrs. Charles Young, Union Gospel chapel. Leader at the St. John's Evangelical church will be announced later.

BITTER FIGHT LOOMING OVER ADDED TAXES

FDR Demand For 16 Billions More This Year Brings Clash of Opinion.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — A tax fight which some house members say may dwarf the pay-as-you-go dispute, is shaping up over the various proposals for meeting President Roosevelt's unprecedented demand for at least $16,000,000,000 in additional revenue this year.

The fight is expected to be between the treasury, which favors a spendings tax, and house members, who favor a 10 per cent national sales tax. The treasury's proposal would be a tax on money spent after allowing deductions for such items as debt repayment, insurance premium payments, increases on bank balances and purchases of bonds or other capital assets.

Congressional sources said that some aspects of this and other phases of the general tax question may be ironed out today at a conference called by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes.

Byrnes made it clear that the conference would deal with future administration tax policy and indicated that details would be sent to congress in a presidential message approving the pay-as-you-go income tax bill.

Some members of the house ways and means committee believe Mr. Roosevelt will revise upward the $16,000,000,000 estimate he sent to congress with his budget message early in the session.

Most of the committee members were pessimistic over the prospects for consideration of the administration's program before fall. The president has promised to send new recommendations to congress prior to the summer recess, tentatively fixed for July 4.

Whatever new avenue measures are proposed, there appeared little likelihood that any of them will be made retroactive. House and senate leaders have taken a strong stand against retroactive levies, pointing out that they would violate the principle of pay-as-you-go.

President Roosevelt's opposition to a general sales tax, reiterated at a press conference Tuesday, apparently has done very little to quiet congressional agitation for such a levy. Most members conceded that specialized taxes, such as increased excess on tobacco and liquor as mentioned by the president, must be considered, but not to the exclusion of a general sales tax.

NO RUSH HERE

New Gas Cut Rumors Create Buying Spree In Ohio.

Either Mansfield drivers are unconcerned by rumors or they are among the sanest in Ohio was the conclusion reached by Mansfield filling station operators today.

Station proprietors said that rumors of cutting the value of gasoline ration coupons had not caused any noticeable rush on filling stations yesterday.

In Cleveland the rumor caused motorists to flock to stations in great numbers. Several establishments remained open after the usual closing hour and many operators reopened their stations, it was reported.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

Sentence of 10 days in the Richland county jail was suspended by Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in the contempt of court case against John P. Browne yesterday. Charges were filed by Amy Louise Browne, on failure to support their minor children. He was ordered to pay court costs.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

JOE ought to know!
Joe Chronister
"I've read AP news all the way from Kansas to New Zealand and I've had a chance to know that Associated Press reports were accurate.
"The American public is being told the truth.
"There are, of course, certain things that must be omitted at the time to prevent giving information to the enemy, but I believe what we are told is reliable and we can depend on it."
This statement, reported in the Lyons, Kansas, News, is from Joe Chronister, a radioman on the U. S. Destroyer DeHaven sunk off Guadalcanal.
Joe is typical of the millions who believe day in, day out, in AP news—the Chicago mother who was satisfied her son was safe in New Guinea only "because The AP said so," the United States senator who states authoritatively, "I see by The Associated Press . . ," the readers everywhere who have learned "AP" stands for truth wherever newspapers are printed.

BOOKS DEALING WITH WAR TOP LIBRARY LIST

Russian Mystery Story, Book on Collapse of Singapore Go Into Circulation.

Booth Tarkington, Ivy Litvinoff, wife of the Soviet ambassador to the United States, George Weller and Darryl F. Zanuck are some of the authors whose names appear on the covers of the new fiction and non-fiction books at Mansfield Public library this week.

A Russian mystery, a story of the fall of Singapore, a first-hand account of action in North Africa and the unusual story of a Chinese-American fill the pages of the new volumes which will appear on the library shelves Saturday.

KATE FENNIGATE by Booth Tarkington is the story of a remarkable woman—a woman who, from girlhood, was destined to play a dominant role in the lives of men. Wise, intuitive, a born manager, Kate dedicates her life to the furtherance of the careers of a succession of men—first her ne'er-do-well and brilliant father—then Lake Speer, engineer with the Roe Metal Products company—then her cousin and husband, Ames Lanning.

ARMY BRAT by Tommy Wadelton is the poignant story of young Jim Tucker who spent his early life in army posts and garrisons. It is the story of his mother whom he didn't remember very well because he was so little when she died; of his father, army born and bred, of his ambitions and triumphs; of his love and marriage; and of what it means to be Lieutenant Tucker of the United States Air Forces in China today.

MOSCOW MYSTERY by Ivy Litvinoff, wife of Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet ambassador to the United States, is a novel of crime and intrigue, with glimpses of the theater, out front as well as backstage. Written in Russia some 12 years ago, the book is being published now for the first time in the United States. In a preface written especially for the American edition, the author notes the changes which the last 12 years have brought to the Soviet capital—particularly of the transition of Moscow's former street children into Soviet citizens as the world knows them today.

Other fiction includes: THE BRITTLE GLASS, Loftis, YESTERDAY'S MADNESS, Cockrell, BIG STORE, Rose.

SINGAPORE IS SILENT by George Weller tells of the heartbreaking retreat down the Malayan peninsula before the fall of Singapore. Mr. Weller was in the thick of things and he gives the reader a manual of Japanese methods and the feeling of jungle warfare in a terrain where everything is hostile. In the account of the last days of Singapore, he not only sketches the episodes, but draws the lessons. Here are the reflections of an experienced observer concerned not only with today and yesterday, but also with the future.

TUNIS EXPEDITION by Darryl F. Zanuck is a first-hand account of the Signal Corps in action in North Africa—by the internationally known motion picture official and director—and forms a pictorial diary of the first month of action up to December 10, 1942. It is vivid, terse, lightened by bits of humor, and it manages to leave with the reader a graphic picture of modern war. Illustrated by official United States photographs of the campaign.

FATHER AND GLORIOUS DESCENDENT by Pardee Lowe is an account of the life of a young Chinese-American, a graduate of Stanford university and Harvard Business School (now of the U. S. army) and his China-born father in San Francisco. In a literate, humorous and sympathetic manner, he shows how a mutual understanding was brought about between the two generations. It is an entertaining and meaningful account of how "The Twain" must meet and of how an ancient culture and a new one can make together something better than either.

MASTER MARINER The Life and Voyages of Amosa Delano by James B. Connolly is a biography of a New Englander sea captain who spent many years during the late 1700s and the early 1800s in voyages to China and the South Seas.

Other non-fiction includes YOUR CHILDREN IN WAR TIME Paul; THE WOMAN YOU WANT TO BE Wilson CHILE, Subercaseaux UNCLE HARRY Job; EDITING THE SMALL CITY DAILY Neal A HISTORY OF POLAND Halecki POEMS FOR LIFE, Clark comp. TRAIL OF THE MONEY BIRD Ripley; LIFELINES OF VICTORY Harris BOOKS LIBRARIES AND YOU, Boyd and others.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS

He has a brother in the air corps, he delights in building model planes, he can name every plane made. He's a typical American boy and when he reads he likes stories about airplanes.

Two new books in the children's section of the Mansfield Public Library will suit him exactly for they are both about planes.

WHEN I GROW UP I'LL BE A FLYER by Lillian Rifkin is written in very simple language so the youngest air enthusiasts may read and enjoy it. A flyer's training is explained here along with many photographic illustrations. Experience required for both civilian service and flyers in the armed forces is included in this book.

ARE YOU FIT TO BE A PILOT? by Ray and Washburn is a book for older boys nearly ready to enter their flight training. They may learn whether they are physically fit to become pilots by reading this book designed by a flight surgeon to give them some of this information. There are a few interesting tests included which may be easily taken at home.

ADOPT MARINES

California Community Takes Battalion Under Wing.

SAN MATEO, Cal.—(INS)— The largest family in history—an entire battalion of marines—has been adopted by San Mateo residents, who voluntarily took on the duties of foster parents.

Through purchase of war bonds, the foster parents bear the entire cost of recruiting, training, equipping and maintaining the men.

The adoption, ushered in by an official ceremony, was highlighted by presentation of the U. S. marine corps emblem to the city and its acceptance by Mrs. George E. Swett, mother of Lieut. J. E. Swett, marine corps ace who shot down seven Jap bombers in a single combat.

Known as the San Mateo Plan, the program is expected to become nationwide.
